Koenig Huddling on Downtown Housing With UDC Aides

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON

Mayor Francis R. Koenig will meet with officials from the Urban Development Corporation Wednesday morning in his office at city hall to discuss UDC's plans for a housing project in the Broadway East Urban renewal project.

Participating in the discussions will be the mayor, Herbert Morris, regional director for UDC, headquartered in New Paltz, James G. Connors, executive director of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency and representatives of the agency's engineers, Brinnier and Larios.

Sources at UDC indicate that Morris will be coming to Kingston with four proposals for housing, ranging from a 72-unit complex to a 150-unit complex.

Meanwhile, downtown, the Hudson River Valley Commission has announced its approval of the construction of an oil storage complex for the Hudson Cement Plant on North Street. The cement plant is planning to convert from coal to oil fuel and plans to build an oil storage plant, pipeline and a dock. HRVC notes in its report that the conversion from coal to oil is expected to reduce air pollution, a subject of frequent complaint from residents in the area of the cement plant.

The proposal to convert from coal to oil raises the question of whether the Penn Central will discontinue its line through downtown to the Cement plant that is used primarily to haul coal to the plant. An official at Penn Central told The Freeman that a long range study of the situation would have to be made by the railroad and that any proposals to discontinue the line would have to be approved by he Interstate Commerce Commission.

Special

Mayor Koenig said he was "encouraged" by the latest developments in the UDC housing situation. Koenig had been the prime mover behind the UDC proposal, contacting the state agency as early as January and sounding them out on the possibility of building in the Broadway East project. At the time, the mayor also inquired as to the possibility of UDC assisting the city in building the Rondout Neighborhood Center but UDC later ruled that project out of its jurisdiction although it did provide some "technical assistance" in reviewing the original plans for the center drawn up by the architectural firm of Pomerance and Breines three years ago.

UDC officials have privately expressed reservations on the soil conditions on the proposed site of the housing project along Broadway between St. Mary's Church and the new city hall now under construction. UDC soil study tests have reportedly shown that the site cannot hold two-story buildings.

The mayor, reportedly, is prepared to argue that assertion by pointing out that there were numerous two-story buildings along Broadway before the urban renewal program demolished them.

Indications are, however, that the UDC housing project in Broadway East has moved from the area of serious jeopardy to distinct possibility.

Mayor Koenig has termed the project the key to downtown redevelopment, reasoning that if new housing can be built, supporting facilities will follow. The urban renewal agency has designated the area below city hall down to Mill Street as a general commercial area to include a shopping plaza.

Lively Debates At NAACP Night For Candidates

By TIM SCHUSTER

KINGSTON

If the Ulster County Branch of the NAACP anticipated lively debate at Monday's candidates' night at Riverview Baptist Church, it certainly was not disappointed.

Where opposing candidates were present, the issues, records, promises, and aspersions were emphatically pronounced with the following match-ups occurring: Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. and John Greaney for Fish's position; Assemblyman H. Clark Bell and George M. Barthel for Bell's job; and the liveliest exchanges of all between Alex J. Nirenberg and Francis J. Vogt, candidates for Ulster County District Attorney.

Also speaking were David Lenefsky, Democrat for the State Senate; Joseph F. Saccoman for county treasurer; and Charles (Mike) Johnson for county coroner.

Bell began on pollution, stating that results of tests on the Hudson River cement plants from Kingston to Coxsackie, which produce 80 per cent of the state's output, would be forthcoming this week regarding air pollution. He also praised Ferroxcube Corporation for installing a $60,000 pollution filter system.

Bell's position on drug addiction was that results depend on "re-stabilizing the family unit."

He said that Urban Development Corporation study on downtown housing and community development center can be expected within a week.

Barthel noted that as supervisor of Wawarsing he had the first mutual self-help building program in the Northeast, and helped start Community Action.

He recommended price and wage fixing to stop inflation, noting that Ulster County's per capita income is 25 per cent below the state average.

The Route 209 reconstruction question and the plight of the poor got a thorough re-hashing between the two candidates, as well as education appropriations alleged vacillations and the 320 millionaires in the state who did not pay any income taxes last year.

Vogt said his experience qualified him for the DA post, with 50 felony cases tried and 17 years in law enforcement, cluding ten with the FBI.

Comptroller Levitt visits Freeman office. Story on page 5.

He charged Nirenberg would solve the narcotics problem by "puttin people to death," and said Nirenberg's charges reflected "fuzzy-headed thinking."

Nirenberg agreed that the dominant issue was drugs, and reiterated his statement that the DA's office had convicted only six of 115 drug pushers as charged since 1964.

He said that a $4 million Legal Commission report on Crime and Causes said Ulster County had the worst conviction record in the state with 12 per cent.

Vogt later interpreted the drug pusher allegation by classifying reduced charges and youthful offenders in separate categories, claiming 51 convictions and noting that the discretion of judges and the fact that some may have been innocent entered into the question.

Lenefsky departed from his usual technique of bearing down on specific issues, and instead said he had come to the conclusion that "my opponent in this election is apathy."

He said the "most important issue today" is the people of Ulster and Dutchess Counties and the fact that most have lost hope and interest in solving "our economic, social and political problems."

He asked that the responsibilities of citizenship today be emphasized, rather than the rights, and he advocated beginning at home because "there is no other place in the world for us to start."

Congressman Fish commented that he had kept the people informed as he had pledged to do, through newsletters, releases, and several district offices, as well as extensive "circuit riding."

He said that the civil rights bills on the books are not being enforced, and have never been enforced. He suggested that the federal government,

OHIO STATE WELCOME—President Richard M. Nixon is helped atop his car as students swarm him as the Chief Executive made a surprise visit to the Ohio State University campus. (UPI Telephoto)

Nixon Turns Jeers Into Weapons

KANSAS CITY (AP) — President Nixon is fashioning the taunts and jeers of youthful hecklers into part of the political weaponry as he campaigns for Republicans battling to take over Democratic seats in the Senate.

His targets today: Tennessee, Indiana and North Carolina.

Shouting knots of protesters have provided a backdrop for the Nixon law and order message at every stop so far on his six-state campaign swing, and the President is telling voters to retort with Republican ballots in the Nov. 3 elections.

"I say don't answer in kind," Nixon declared. "You don't have to shout four letter obscenities . . . On Nov. 3 in the quiet of the polling booth consider the candidates, consider their record the year around and if the candidate has given encouragement to, has condoned lawlessness and violence and permissiveness, then, you know what to do."

That was Nixon's advice Monday to a campaign crowd in Columbus, Ohio. At a wind-swept rally in Grand Forks, N.D., he urged, "the great silent majority of this country to stand up and be counted . . .

"Remember, the four letter word that is the most powerful of all the four letters in the world is vote."

Law and order, and the problem of campus turmoil, is a key issue there too.

It was a major theme in Nixon's campaign stops in Columbus, in behalf of Rep. Robert Taft Jr., the Senate nominee, and Roger Cloud, campaigning for governor; in Grand Forks, Thomas Kleppe against Democratic Sen. Quentin N. Burdick; and in Kansas City in behalf of John C. Danforth, the Missouri attorney general, running against Democratic Sen. Stuart Symington.

In Columbus, a White House spokesman said police estimated the statehouse plaza crowd at 40,000 to 50,000, Nixon himself claimed 100,000 people were on hand. In Grand Forks, the White House said an estimated 8,000 people turned out. In Kansas City, there were more than 11,000 people in the Municipal Auditorium.

"All over this country today we see a rising tide of terrorism, of crime, and on the campuses of our universities we have seen those who instead of engaging in peaceful dissent, engage in violence, try to shout down speakers with obscene words," Nixon said. "My friends it is time to draw the line and say we are not going to stand for that."

At each step, Nixon said only a minority of young Americans engages in violence for disruptive demonstrations. "The younger generation has been given a bad name by a few violent demonstrators. They do not speak for youth and they do not speak for America."

That drew a long, standing ovation in Kansas City.

In Columbus, Nixon paid a surprise 20-minute visit to the campus of Ohio State University and drew an instant crowd of about 1,000 students, with only a scattering of dissidents.

Fire Leads to Mass Murder Discovery

Five Bound Bodies in a Pool

SANTA CRUZ, Calif. (AP) — The bound bodies of an eye surgeon, his wife, their two sons and a secretary were found Monday night shot and dumped in the swimming pool of their palatial home which was destroyed by fire.

Each victim had been shot once in the back of the head, and the physician had a second wound in the back, Sheriff Doug James told a news conference.

"We have no motive," he said.

Patches of blood stained the cement apron around the pool. Two cars blocked the grounds to the house, between Santa Cruz and Sequel about 100 miles south of San Francisco.

No notes or other signs left by the killers were reported discovered and James said no sign of struggle was found in the house.

The victims were Dr. Victor M. Ohta, 45, his wife, Virginia, 43; their sons, Derik, 12, and Taggart, 11, and Dr. Ohta's secretary, Dorothy Cadwallader, 38.

The Ohtas had two teen-age daughters who were not at home. The sheriff declined to give any details on them.

At about 8:10 p.m., two sheriff's deputies noticed smoke and went to the $250,000 hilltop home which had two entrance roads.

One driveway was blocked by Dr. Ohta's Rolls Royce, the other by Mrs. Cadwallader's Lincoln Continental. The officers said the fire had been burning for some time.

Firemen were summoned and the bodies were discovered by Live Oak Fire Chief Ted Pound.

The sheriff said he believed the death bullets came from a .30-caliber weapon.

The hands of all the victims were tied with scarves. The bodies of Dr. Ohta and his wife were on the bottom of the pool, the other victims floating on the surface.

James said it appeared the fire was set after the slayings, apparently to call attention to the deaths. James said it appeared more than one person was involved in the killings.

The sheriff said the fire was set in various parts of the house with some type of flammable materials.

None of the neighbors reported hearing any shots. The Ohta home is in an unincorporated area three miles east of Santa Cruz and 400 yards from the nearest neighbor.

The Ohtas were to have attended a dinner Monday night at Dominican Santa Cruz Hospital. James thought Mrs. Cadwallader might have been there to babysit for the evening.

Kunstler Rushes to the Aid Of Indicted Kent State 25

KENT, Ohio (UPI)—Craig Morgan, president of the student government of Kent State University, who had urged his fellow students to follow the motto "Power to the Peaceful," was one of the first four persons arrested on indictments stemming from the violent campus disorders of last May.

The 20,000 student campus reacted with shock to the arrest of Morgan, a senior Air Force ROTC cadet. More of the 25 persons named in secret indictments by a special state grand jury were expected to be arrested today.

William M. Kunstler, the lawyer who defended the Chicago Seven, said here Monday night he would send several lawyers to co-ordinate the defense of "the Kent 25."

Morgan pleaded innocent to a second degree riot charge and was released on $1,000 bond.

Others arrested Monday were Dr. Thomas S. Lough, 42, associate professor of sociology; Jerry H. Rupe, 22, and Richard C. Felber, 21 of Akron.

Felber and Rupe, former students now serving jail terms on drug convictions, were charged in connection with the burning of the campus ROTC Building May 2. Lough was released on $5,000 bond on a charge of inciting to riot May 4, the day four Kent State students were slain in a confrontation with National Guardsmen.

James Nuber, a senior from Canton, Ohio and Morgan's executive assistant in the student government, said:

"Craig is just not a radical. A lot of kids are uptight. They figure if Craig goes, who next?"

Morgan, 21, of Upper Arlington, had urged students to heal the scars of last spring's tragedy by involving themselves in constructive activities this fall, under the slogan: "Power to the Peaceful."

"Truthfully, we are a little shocked" at Morgan's arrest, said a spokesman for the administration.

Kent State University President Robert I. White rejected a demand the university intervene for the 25, saying, "No member of the university has any special privilege in terms of law enforcement in court actions."

The university Faculty Senate re-affirmed its support of White in a resolution that declared: "Universities cannot live and make their critical contributions in an atmosphere of repression."

Courtroom Slaying

CHICAGO (AP) — A convicted murder who boasted that he would never die in the electric chair was shot and killed by police as he held pistols to the heads of two hostages.

Using a gun authorities said was smuggled to him in a book which had its pages cut out, Gene R. Lewis, 27, tried to escape from the Criminal Courts Building Monday shortly after a routine hearing.

Lewis was sentenced in February to die for the 1968 murder of a guard for a mobile check-cashing service.

As he was led from the courtroom Monday, Lewis pulled a gun and forced Walter Makowski, a special agent guarding him, into an elevator using the unarmed guard's body as a shield. He fired one shot from the elevator at a guard.

They got off the elevator one floor higher—the seventh—and Lewis pushed Makowski through the door of a courtroom and fired several more shots. Inside the courtroom he took another gun from a guard and took Michael Stevenson, an assistant state's attorney, hostage.

Alarms sounded throughout the building.

Lewis emerged from the courtroom with the two hostages and shot Leonard Karlin, 55, a lawyer, in the hip.

As Lewis advanced down a hallway, an officer hiding in a closet, Lee Hamilton, jumped out, put his gun to Lewis' head and ordered him to drop his weapons.

"Lewis turned. I shot three times," Hamilton said later.

Other officers then opened fire. Stevenson was wounded in the arm. Makowski suffered a powder burn.

Shortest, Calmest in Months

Quiet Meeting in Ellenville

By JON POWERS

ELLENVILLE — Monday's meeting of the Ellenville Village Board could be termed a "return to normalcy," as matters including bids on fire hose, parking lots and a code of ethics were disposed of quickly and quietly, in marked contrast to the feuds and crises that have characterized the trustee's meetings throughout the summer.

Angry debate among board members and the citizenry on low income housing, water shortages and one-way streets was conspicuosuly absent Monday as a sparse gathering of village residents witnessed one of the shortest, and calmest, meetings in months.

Among the "highlights" of Monday's meeting was a report by Village Police Chief William C. Trapnell on the Market Street parking situtation. At the request of the board, and Market Street businessmen, Trapnell conducted a survey of the street and the possibility of establishing metered parking areas on one, or both, sides.

Trapnell's report came complete with detailed drawings. He recommended that Market street between Canal and Center Streets remain unchanged, with the stipulation that metered parking could be permitted at a designated area on the south side of the street. Stating that the width of Market Street is 29 feet, 6 inches, Trapnell contended that the establishment of parking zones on both sides of the street would render traffic flow virtually impossible because of the lack of maneuvering space.

Trapnell also recommended that parking be prohibited on the south side of Market Street between Warren and Center Streets in order to insure "safe" traffic flow.

Earlier, the board authorized the village attorney to draw up a bon authorization for $30,000 to cover construction of parking lots and the paving of several streets and intersections within the village.

Construction of the lots, required by the Urban Renewal Agency, will cost an estimated $13,500, with work being awarded to the low bidder, Sullivan Highway Products, Inc. Pavement of the streets, which will include a one and one half inch "waterproof" surface, will cost about $16,500. It was noted that the village may be able to pay off the $30,000 total over a five year span without having to sell a bond. It was further stated that the state might reimburse the village for a protion of the funds spent for the Urgan Renewal related work.

The Board of Trustees, adhering to a state mandate for all county, city, town, village and school district governing bodies, indicated its intent to adopt a code of ethics establishing standards of conduct for officers and employes of the village. The proposed code of ethics, a "word-for-word" version of the state approved code, will be aired at a Nov. 2 public hearing before its adoption as local law.

Progress on the village water system has begun, according to village Manager Lawrence E. Eyres, with the laying of "creek crossing" piping scheduled to begin Wednesday. Eyres again emphasized that the Lake Maratanza supply is "extremely low," and he added, "it's a race against time."

Difficulty in obtaining ordered police cars was also revealed by Eyres. The two cars, ordered from General Motors, are slated for delivery 45 days after termination of the UAW strike which, speculated Eyres, indicates that the cars will be delivered some time in January. In order, however, to obtain required patrol cars at an earlier date, Eyres stated that the village might re-advertise for bids from auto companies not affected by the strike.

Announcement was also made that the village would conduct a "leaf pickup" this fall, with notification that "trash" would not be removed at the same time.

Trustee DeWitt Clinton suggested that the village withhold permission for the Town of Wawarsing to use the village landfill beyond the winter. Clinton stated that the village facility is near capacity and that it can no longer adequately handle both town and village refuse. The Town Board, it was noted, is currently investigating possible sites for its own landfill.

Bids to furnish fire hose for the Village Fire Department were opened and then turned over to the village manager for study and a recommendation.

The Village Board also approved funds to send Police Chief Trapnell to a Federal Bureau of Investigation Law Enforcement Conference at Bear Mountain on Wednesday of this week.

UCCC Receives $53,299 for Computer Center

STONE RIDGE — Two Federal grants totaling $53,299 have been awarded to Ulster County Community College for equipment and staff for its Computer Center, president George B. Erbstein announced today.

They augment an earlier grant of $149,156 for purchase of an IBM computer. The three sums, totaling $202,455 were awarded by the State Education Department for full implementation of the data-processing curriculum at the college. The funds are made available through the Vocational Education Act, a major Federal program in the field of education.

Erbstein indicated that $27,269 will be used to equip a laboratory for instruction and practice in statistics, a requied course for students in the data-processing curriculum. Students in other career curricula such as business and engineering will also have access to the equipment, as will students and faculty who wish to use the laboratory for independent study and research projects.

The sum of $26,030 will be used for staffing the computer center, which is open during daytime and evening hours for use by the entire college community.

"Our data-processing curriculum can now reach its full dimensions," Erbstein said. "We will have the staff and the equipment to teach students to use many kinds of computer deivces and statistical methods. Statistics are used in every aspect of business, industry and government, and if our students are to be adequately prepared to work in any of these segments of the economy, they must have at least fundamental instruction in statistics and in the use of current technological aids."

"We believe many adults in the community will also want to take advantage of this opportunity to update their levels of education and job skill. We plan to develop specialized institutes and weekend programs for people in the community — both professional and nonprofessional — who recognize that an up-to-date knowledge of statistics and data-processing are vital tools for advancement."

"Anyone with questions about our computer center and its services is invited to call David L. Bartlett, director of the Center, for information about how we can help fill community needs in this existing field."

TWA Stewardesses, Pursers on Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Striking stewardesses manned picket lines at major American airports today as federal mediators arranged another meeting between Trans World Airlines and the Transportation Workers Union in a renewed bid to settle a contract dispute.

A minute after midnight EDT, stewardesses and pursers began walking off the job at key airports across the nation in a strike grounding TWA's domestic service—about 425 flights daily. TWA had said it would seek to continue most international flights.

Neither side would discuss details of wage demands or offers. The dispute also is said to involve work rules and fringe benefits.

Federal mediator Francis A. O'Neill said after extended talks Monday night that an impasse had been reached in efforts to agree on a new contract to replace the three-year pact which expired Aug. 1, 1969. He promptly scheduled another session for today.

TWA said it employs 5,095 hostesses and 281 pursers—who head cabin crews on long-distance flights.

Voicing regret that an agreement could not be reached Monday, TWA President F. C. Wiser Jr. said he hoped "we can reach an early settlement of the dispute."

A union spokesman has said three months of mediation failed to resolve the dispute and members had been waiting for management to make an offer bringing the wages, hours, benefits and working conditions up to standards the union had set on other major airlines.

A Pan American Airlines contract with the union provides top salary of $851 a month for stewardesses and $1,073 for pursers.

Historic Merger of Baptist Associations Set

KINGSTON

Two associations of American Baptist Churches in Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, and Putnam Counties will meet Saturday, Oct. 24 in First Baptist Church, Poughkeepsie, for the purpose of merging into the Mid-Hudson Association of American Baptist Churches. Approximately 25 churches are involved in the merger which combines the larger Hudson River Central Association and the somewhat smaller Dutchess Association. Several thousand congregants will be working together in the new association.

The Rev. Harrison E. Williams, of Syracuse, executive minister of the New York State Baptist Convention, will conduct the merger ceremony during the afternoon session. The day's events begin at 9:30 a.m., and there will be separate sessions for men and women at 11:20 a.m. The host church will serve a fellowship dinner at 1 p.m. Several pastors will bring a report from the sessions of the New York State Convvention which met recently in Buffalo. The Rev. Richard Christeleit, pastor of Central Baptist Church, Pawling, is moderator of Dutchess Association, and will preside at the general sessions. Stuart Gates of Stony Point is moderator of the Hudson River Central Association.

David Nelson of Schenectady will preside at the session for American Baptist Men, and Mrs. Arthur T. Pedersen of Kingston at the session for American Baptist Women.

The Rev. Mrs. Mattie Cooper, pastor of Springfield Baptist Church, Beacon, will lead the morning devotions. The Rev. Norman F. Blosat of First Baptist Church, Kingston will be song leader and Mrs. Hugh F. Miller of Poughkeepsie, organsit.

Mrs. E. Sterling Carter and Dr. DeForest H. Palmiter will speak on "An Imperative Challenge For Mission," reporting on their World Mission Tour during the summer of 1970 with agroup of 20 American Baptists led by Dr. George W. Hill of Rochester.

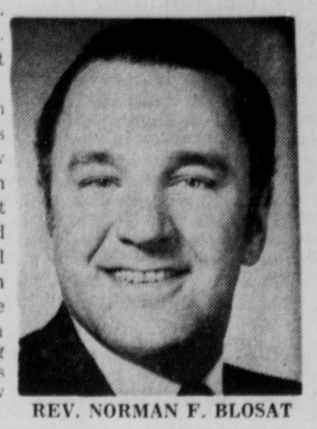

A special guest speaker from the national offices of the denomination in Valley Forge, Pa., will be the Rev. Miss Elizabeth J. Miller, executive director of the Division of Christian Social Concern. She will address the women's session in the morning and the combined group at the luncheon on the theme of United Nations Day, which is also being observed oct. 24.

The Rev. Miss Miller has served the national group for 10 years, and prior to coming to Valley Forge was Director of Christian Social Relations for the Massachusetts Baptist Convention. She also served as pastor of the Readsboro, Vt. Baptist Church. She received her B.D. degree from Yale Divinity School.

The Rev. Mr. Williams is a graduate of Syracuse University and Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, and assumed his position with the state convention in April of this year. He formerly was executive minister of the Monroe Baptist Association in Rochester and director of Urban Ministry for the Cleveland, O., Baptist Association.

The Rev. Robert W. Dixon, pastor of Central Baptist Church, Salt Point, will give the benediction prior to the 5 p.m. adjournment. The Rev. Kurt A. Klingbeil is pastor of the host church.

The Mid-Hudson Association of American Baptist Churches will be affiliated with the New York State Baptist Convention and the American Baptist Convention. The Dutchess and Hudson River Central Association have been in existence since 1843 as separate groups, thus the merger on Saturday will mark the ending of two 137-year-old organizations and the formation of a new combined one.

REV. NORMAN F. BLOSAT

Ferroxcube to Correct Condition

SAUGERTIES

Ferroxcube Corporation, Saugerties has agreed to a voluntary compliance schedule which calls for submission of plans of a project proposal for abatement of a red iron oxide discharge condition in the Mudderskill stream.

The firm had been directed Monday by Environmental Commissioner Henry L. Diamond to half industrial pollution of a tributary of the Esopus Creek.

Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, (R-Woodstock) reported the voluntary cooperation by Ferroxcibe to correct a situation whereby red iron oxide suspended in liquid form is discharged into the Mudderskill stream nearby.

Commissioner Diamond, Harry Edinger, environmental engineer of the County Health Department and James J. Riche, director of administration at Ferroxcube have discussed the problem recently and reached an agreement with the firm for voluntary compliance.

In the agreement Ferroxcube will submit a project proposal for abatement of the oxide condition by Jan. 15, 1971 and by April 15, will present a plan for the construction of an abatement device, and according to the schedule the abatement device should be operational by Sept. 15, 1971.

Assemblyman Bell said that at Ferroxcube, they are designing and will construct a filter press which will remove all of the oxide before the liquid is discharged in the stream. The cost of the project is extimated at $60,000.

Assemblyman Bell said he had received some letters of complaint about the condition some months ago and attempts were made to alleviate the condition before enforcement procedures were necessary.

Assemblyman Bell today expressed his appreciation for the cooperation of the Ferroxcube Corp., the Ulster County Health Department and Commissioner Diamond's office in working together to alleviate this problem.

"Where there is a spirit of true cooperation between government and industry, and industry is willing to invest the substantial amounts of money necessary, the war again pollution can be reversed and significant gains made., "the assemblyman said.

Saugerties Considers Halloween Curfew

SAUGERTIES

Saugerties village officials expressed grave concern Monday night about reports they consider reliable, that Halloween goodies containing the drug LSD will be distributed to children of the area.

Mayor Cornelius M. Cox in addressing the Village Board of Trustees last night called a special emergency meeting of the board for Monday, Oct. 26 at 8 p.m. at the village clerk's office to consider the following action:

Enacting another curfew for those young people over 16.

Set up guidelines for parents to follow Halloween night.

Ask for the help of volunteer firemen and other volunteers to help in patrolling the streets.

Curtail trick or treating calls at dusk.

The mayor said the board considers the source of the report reliable. He said invitations will be sent to the Saugerties Narcotic Control Council, town officials, local clergymen, school officials and other groups, seeking their participation to make a combined effort to prevent this from happening.

The mayor said volunteer firemen will be asked to assist local police and other volunteer help may be asked to assist in patrolling the village. Organizations will be asked to provide entertainment and supervision in an attempt to keep the children out of contact with favors containing LSD or other drugs.

Mayor Cox is urging parents to accompany their children on Halloween and allow them to accept Halloween favors only from friends and relatives. He preferred they curtail trick or treat calls at dusk.

In other business, the resignation of Vernon Joe Benjamin from the board of trustees was accepted. On a call for nominations to fill the vacancy, Walter L. Keefe of Finger Street, a member of the Village Planning Board was proposed and named on a unanimous ballot.

Mayor Cox named the new trustee as police commissioner and also announced the new commissioner will have an advisory board consisting of two members. The mayor said he will announce the names shortly. It was reported that former police commissioners were being considered.

Permission was granted the Saugerties Jaycees to use the mini-park on Partition Street on Saturday, Oct. 31, between 8 a. m. and 2 p. m. for registration and distribution of materials to children participating in the window painting contest.

Vincent Schaffer, representing the Saugerties Fire Department requested that air conditioning be installed in all three village firemanic rooms. The mayor said the matter would be considered when the board prepares the next budget.

Fire Commissioner Richard J. Underhill reported that the hook and ladder truck was involved in a minor traffic mishap on Partition Street while responding to a fire Thursray night. No damage was reported to the fire truck. However, there was considerable damage to the parked car involved. The Property Damage Committee will investigate.

Four City Men Buy Herzog Building

KINGSTON

The Herzog building at 332 Wall Street has been purchased by four local men — Dr. Milton Grover, Joseph E. O'Connor, George Schneider and Lawrence Quilty.

Announcement of the purchase was made today by Quilty who said that the four have "great confidence in the future of Wall Street and that they are pleased with the John Pike design for rehabilitation in keeping with the city's history."

Quilty also stressed the fact that the new parking garage under construction nearby and the urban renewal changes in progress all add toward placing Wall Street in a good real estate position.

He also said the purchasers felt the area is to be enhanced by the proposed Senate House park at the rear of the Herzog Building.

All these advances, in keeping with the area's historical tradition will bring more and more people to uptown Kingston, Quilty advised, thereby benefitting the entire community.

The brick building which has two entrances, one on Wall Street and the other on Fair Street, is three story with a finished basement and a sprinkler system.

The four owners are offering to lease the property.

For many years the building served as a place of business for the Herzog Hardware business which moved to new quarters in the Kingston Shopping Plaza a little over a year ago.

Agnew Says He's an Outlet

'Just a Political Poultice'

CHICAGO (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew Monday night said radical politicians are using him as a "political poultice" to soothe their consciences after "flip-flopping ... on law and order."

"One must sympathize with the distress of a politician as he deserts his conscience, abandons his principles and surrenders to what he privately believes is a benighted public, poisoned with hatred and racism," Agnew told a fund-raising dinner for Sen. Ralph T. Smith, R-Ill.

"So what do these conscience-stricken people do? No wonder they charge hate-peddling. No wonder a (Dr. Benjamin) Spock tries to spook the people by charging racism. His crowd knows they are selling out their beliefs and they writhe over it.

"So they need a release for their fear and their frustration and their hypocrisy. And who is the lucky outlet? Yours truly.

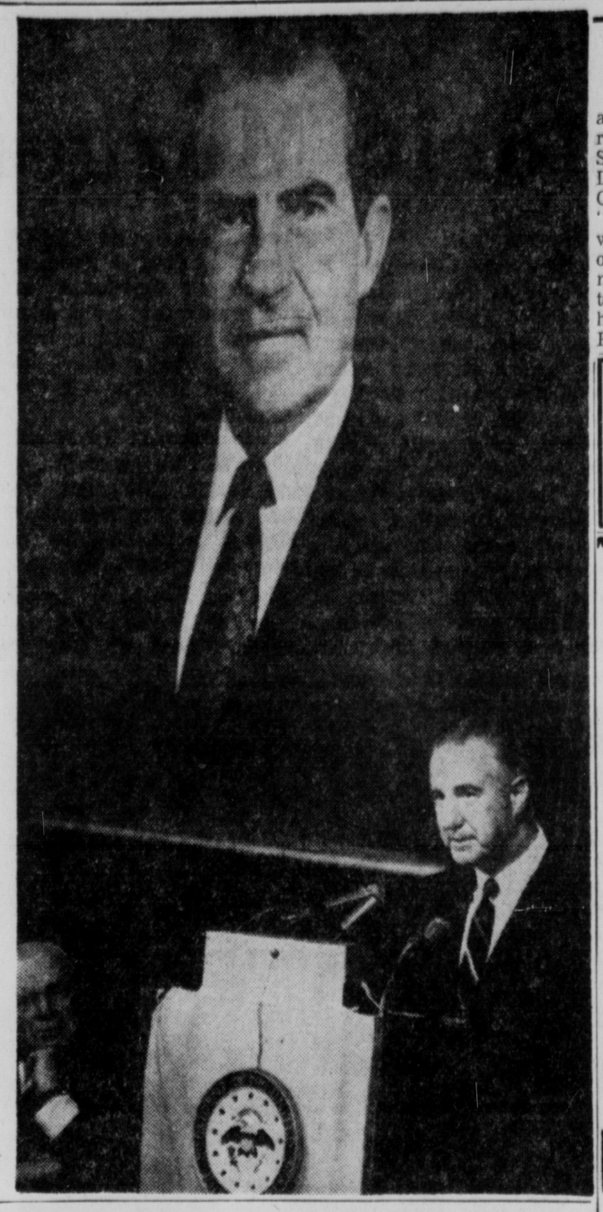

"So, they need a political poultice, and I understand the need," the vice president told a 3,021 persons attending the $250-a-plate dinner.

Agnew remained overnight in Chicago. He was to tape a television talk show this morning and planned to return to Washington about 1 p.m. EDT.

Agnew said several of his political opponents, including Smith's opponent, Adlai E. Stevenson III, have charged he is peddling hate.

Their charges against him, the vice president said, "are spurious and they know it. Ironically, they denounced me for what they are belatedly doing. Their paragon, Sen. (Edward M.) Kennedy, has just fallen all over himself comparing campus radicals with Palestinian terrorists.

"My friends, that odd sound you hear nowadays is the flip-flopping of radical liberals on law and order."

Hits Misfits

Heavy Fighting Breaks Viet Lull Two GIs Killed and Six Wounded

SAIGON (UPI)—Heavy fighting 80 miles from Saigon broke a lull of nearly a week in action involving American forces in Vietnam, military spokesmen said today. Two GIs were killed and six wounded.

Communiques from Phnom Penh said North Vietnamese troops bombarded Cambodian positions eight miles north of the capital, whose residents could see the flash of artillery on the city's outer defensive network.

American spokesmen said another GI was killed and 13 wounded in mine and booby trap explosions across Vietnam Monday and one U.S. soldier died and two were wounded in a clash with Viet Cong units in Long Khanh Province northeast of Saigon.

U.S. spokesmen said five Vietnamese civilians were killed Monday in the explosion of a mine in an area 27 miles north-northeast of Saigon and 13 miles north-northwest of Bien Hoa.

The U.S. Command said a unit of the 3rd Brigade of the 1st Air Cavalry Division came under small arms and rocket grenade attack Monday night from Communist troops in a bunker complex 22 miles north-northeast of Ham Tan, capital of Binh Tuy Province.

Artillery fire and AC119 Shadow fixed wing gunships joined the fighting which lasted two hours. The Americans were unable to determine Communist losses.

It was the first major fighting involving American units in Vietnam in nearly a week.

Allied troops in Vietnam Monday reported killing 31 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong in fighting near the U.S. Green Beret camp near Thuong Duc, 24 miles southwest of Da Nang.

My Lai Massacre–First Public Word

FT. HOOD, Tex. (UPI) — Two government witnesses testified Monday they saw S. Sgt. David Mitchell empty two clips of ammunition from his automatic rifle into a group of 30 unarmed Vietnamese old men, women and children herded into a ditch five to six feet in front of him.

The first public account of the My Lai massacre in which American combat soldiers allegedly killed more than 100 Vietnamese civilians came as the government opened its testimony in an attempt to show Mitchell assaulted with the intent to murder 30 Vietnamese civilians.

Prosecuting attorney, Capt. Michael Swan, speaking slowly in his opening statement, said the government will prove Mitchell's platoon moved "deliberately, but quickly through the village, cleared the hooches, and gathered the people into groups."

It was one of those groups, gathered near a ditch in the eastern part of My Lai, Mitchell is accused of assaulting. Swan said he would prove Mitchell and Lt. William Calley "herded and pushed" the Vietnamese into a ditch, then opened fire on them with automatic weapons.

Charles Sledge of Sardis, Miss., and Dennis Conti of Providence R.I., both radio operators for Calley at My Lai, told the court they saw Mitchell shooting into the ditch.

Report Sadat Tabs Fawzi, Main Chore the Mideast Peace

By United Press International

Government sources said today President Anwar Sadat has chosen Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi as Egypt's first civilian premier in 18 years. Fawzi, a 70-year-old diplomat, apparently was selected to try to negotiate a peaceful settlement in the Middle East.

Sdat, sworn in only Saturday to replace Gamal Abdel Nasser, proposes Fawzi to the central committee of the Arab Socialist Union today. It was expected to give quick approval.

No official announcement has been made as to Sdat's choice, but government sources said it was Fawzi and the semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahram gave a direct hint by printing a picture and profile of Fawzi in connection with the planned announcement of the new premier.

In New York, Secretary of State William P. Rogers was meeting with Israeli Premier Golda Meir in his continuing efforts to get the Middle East peace talks resumed. Israel walked out and has refused to resume discussions until Egypt withdraws missiles it placed in the Suez Canal standstill zone in violation of the 90-day cease-fire that began Aug. 7.

Rogers announced Monday night following a meeting with Andrei A. Gromyko that the Soviet foreign minister would go to Washington to meet with President Nixon Thursday. A main topic of their discussions was certain to be the Middle East.

After three days of fighting, Jordan appeared calm again. A truce between the Palestinian guerrillas and government forces went into effect last month with both agreeing to a military stalemate for the time being. The latest clashes began Saturday, with both sides blaming the other.

The new truce—as was the one ending the civil war Sept. 27—was brought about by the Arab League peace team.

In Syria, government leaders prepared for a national congress to resolve a power struggle in the leftist regime. Amman Radio said Defense Minister Hafez Assad had proclaimed martial law, shut down offices of the Syrian Al-Saiga guerrilla group and confiscated guerrilla weapons.

Dangerous Shortcut View of the 18 Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — States opposing the 1970 law giving the vote to 18-year-olds have told the Supreme Court the measure is a dangerous shortcut undermining the constitutional system.

"This is the place where governments make the first shortcuts that eventually lead to their downfall," Arizona Atty. Gen. Gary K. Nelson said Monday.

Nelson sounded the chief opposition theme that a lower voting age, no matter how desirable, should have been accomplished through constitutional amendment.

And U.S. Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, defending the new law in an all-day hearing, relayed the reservations of the Nixon administration over the provision giving the vote to 18-year-olds.

"I was troubled by this for quite a while," Griswold said about the voting-age change, but said he had resolved it in his own mind.

"Must a line be drawn some place?" Griswold asked. "Of course it must. The question is whether Congress can draw the line."

The solicitor general said enforcement clauses in the Constitution give Congress power to assure citizens "equal protection of the laws."

Monday's spirited arguments came down to a contest between the authority of states against that of Congress.

Concerning Paltz Student Funds

Levitt Denies 'Reversing Field' Charge by Regan

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — State Comptroller Arthur Levitt has denied charges that he reversed his field concerning the student government fund at the State University College at New Paltz, stating that his "directive" of 1968 allegedly ordering a "hands off policy" by the college administration was actually a "recommendation" and that the decision had been and has always been the responsibility of the college's board of trustees.

Levitt's opponent, Republican Edward V. Regan, leveled the charge during a press conference here on Friday. Regan's said that Levitt had issued a directive to the college on the student government fund stating that the fund was to be run by the students and not the college administration. This summer, Regan charged, Levitt after an audit of the books of the SGA, "reversed his field" and criticized the administration for not exercising proper control over the fund.

Levitt said yesterday, during an interview at The Freeman office, that Chancellor Samuel B. Gould had originally written to him in 1968 when the state university was planning to impose a student activities fee and wanted to know if the comptroller would treat such monies collected as state funds.

After the controversy surrounding Levitt's criticism of the administration's handling of the student government fund in late summer, Levitt told The Freeman that he wrote the following letter to the chancellor's office dated Oct. 7:

"Any recommendation made by my office is of course solely for the consideration of the board of trustees since that body has the primary responsibility for determining policies and procedures.

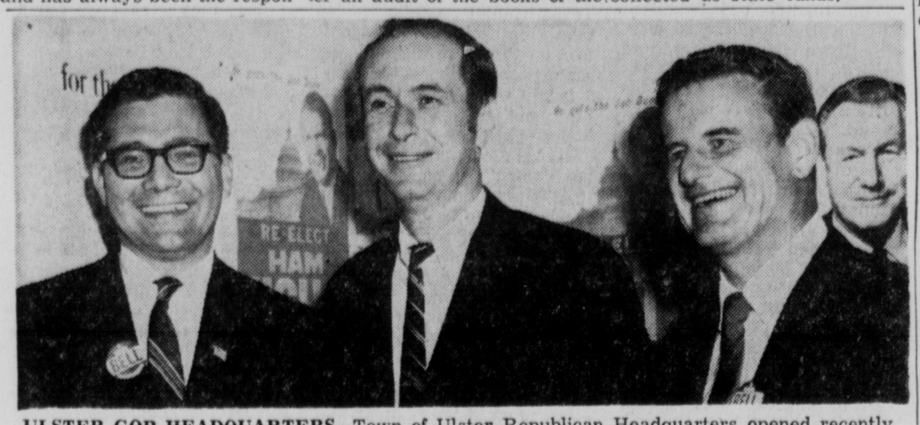

"In this connection I must take exception to your reference to my 1968 letter as a directive. Our audit (of August, 1970), clearly gives the history and actual intent of that letter which was sent in response to a request by the university. Like any other recommendation, it was advisory and not directive in nature."

Levitt now says, that in the wake of the summer audit of New Paltz's student government fund, he has recommended to the board of trustees that it fix, regulate and maintain an overall supervision of student funds.

Regan also charged his Democratic-Liberal opponent with failure to make regular audits of the accounts of the various municipalities in the state. Levitt responded to that charge in a Freeman interview by stating that every town, village, city and county was audited every two years. When asked why the last audit of the city of Kingston books was for a four-year period, 1965 1969 inclusive, the comptroller responded by stating that his department ran "desk audits" of the city's books every year and that if any irregularities had been discovered a complete audit would have been ordered in Kingston.

Addressing himself further to Regan's charges of inadequate auditing, Levitt said, "Professor John Knighton of the University of Texas, in a recently published book on state auditing systems, said that New York State has the most modern and the finest audit operation technique in the 50 states."

Venturing an opinion on the upcoming gubernatorial election between Democrat Arthur J. Goldberg and Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller, Levitt said that "it would be a very close race." As to his relationship with the governor, Levitt said, "I respect him and he respects me but we have had our differences."

Lenefsky Lists Proposals To Curb Air, Water Pollution

SAUGERTIES — David Lenefsky, candidate for the State Senate, announced Monday three major programs he would pursue, if elected, to curb air and water pollution in Ulster and Dutchess Counties.

Speaking to Barclay Heights residents in Saugerties, Lenefsky said "New York State's automobile exhaust law obviously needs to be immediately strengthened because it allows emissions of carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon, two dangerous pollutants, at a level twice as high as the Federal exhaust law." Lenefsky proposed that "New York State adopt an automobile exhaust law which would tightly regulate all pollution emissions including nitrous oxides which is presently excluded from both the Federal and State statutes."

Lenefsky also criticized the air quality control standards established by the New York State Department of Health for Dutchess and Ulster Counties. "Instead of prohibiting the pollution of our air," declared Lenefsky, "these air quality standards would actually allow us to dangerously pollute our air with five contaminants: carbon monoxide, sulfur dioxide, hydrogen acid mist. We now have relatively clean air in Ulster and Dutchess Counties," said Lenefsky, "and it is imperative that we establish very tough air control laws to keep our air unpolluted."

Turning to water pollution, Lenefsky told the audience that "all major cities, towns and villages in Ulster and Dutchess Counties need secondary sewage plants. Existing primary sewage plants only remove 40 per cent of the pollutants from the waste dumped into our waterways. Secondary plants can remove 80 per cent of the pollutants." Lenefsky said, "Saugerties suffers, as do other localities in Ulster and Dutchess, from the absence of a State Senator who would work with local officials in their dealings with Albany to get State money to build a secondary sewage plant. Hundreds of localities across the State are competing to get Albany's money," noted Lenefsky, "and without the cooperation of a State Senator, Dutchess and Ulster Counties will be on, or near, the bottom of Albany's priority list."

Seeks Debt Control Priority In Five-Year State Fiscal Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) —State Comptroller Arthur Levitt today made a new bid for a five-year state fiscal plan and called for tightened controls over the incurrence of state debt.

In his 16th annual report as comptroller, Levitt said highest priority should be given to debt control.

"Recent history supplies a lesson on the harmful effects on the national economy of the inflationary psychology that leads to overbuilding, overspending and overborrowing," he said.

Levitt recommended.

— Use of a comprehensive financial plan that goes beyond the present one year executive budget.

— Projection for five years of all the costs of programs along with estimates of the amounts and sources of funds that will meet those costs.

— Tightening of controls over the incurrence of debt. He noted that at the start of the decade New York owed about $1 billion and full faith and credit debt now totals more than $2.5 billion, with another $2 billion for public authorities.

— Adoption of a realistic policy toward advances to public authorities.

— Simplification of the fund structure.

— Movement toward an accrual system of accounting.

Trades Council Endorses Bell

ALBANY — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) has been endorsed in his reelection campaign to represent Ulster County, in the New York State Assembly, by the Ulster-Sullivan-Delaware-and Greene Counties Building and Construction Trades Council. The council, an affiliate of the New York State Building and Construction Trades Council, in making the endorsement said: "Assemblyman Bell's record shows he has rendered great effort and support for progressive legislation to help all the residents of Ulster County, the Mid-Hudson Valley and New York State."

The council also said: "Assemblyman Bell is sensitive to the concerns, aspirations, and needs of the working man; and he has sponsored and fought for key legislation to help the homes building industry and the general building and construction industry."

Assemblyman Bell expressed grateful appreciation for the endorsement and support of the council and said he looked forward to continued cooperation with labor. Assemblyman Bell concluded by saying: "Working together we can bring about a continual upgrading of job opportunities, a better standard of living and better quality of life for all our citizens."

The Governors' Race

The races for the state houses next month will be determined almost wholly on local issues and personalities. With Republicans holding 19 of the 30 states voting for governor, they are numerically vulnerable, if not politically.

At this point, the best information is that the Democrats will pick up one of the big states, Ohio, where state financial scandals have been rubbed off on their candidate, State Auditor Roger Cloud, who is not involved personally. And John J. Gilligan, a former Congressman, is making an aggressive campaign.

The Republicans are favored in Connecticut, where Congressman Thomas J. Meskill, Republican, is given a slight advantage over Congressman Emilio Q. Daddario, Democrat, in their fight for governor. A three-way race for the U. S. Senate is splitting the Democratic vote and helping the Republicans. The results of the Ohio and Connecticut races could cancel out each other.

Besides Ohio, the Democrats' biggest opportunity seems to be Arkansas. Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, Republican, narrowly trails Dale Bumpers, Democrat, who beat former Gov. Orval Faubus in the primary. In three major states, Republicans seem safe—Ronald Reagan in California, Nelson Rockefeller in New York and William Milliken in Michigan, Gov. Preston Smith, Democrat, seems safe in Texas against Paul Eggers, Republican. Pennsylvania is leaning Republican for Lt. Gov. Raymond Broderick over Milton Shapp, Democrat.

In state elections, taxes, pollution, traffic jams, hurt the incumbent, no matter what his party may be. If the Republicans hold their own, or improve on it, they would score a big victory and strengthen President Nixon's prospects in 1972. A loss of a few states would not be as significant, because they now hold so many.

Senate's Finest Hour

By a vote of 60 to 5, the Senate rejected the major findings of the Commission on Pornography and Obscenity after hearing arguments that must be classed as the Senate's finest hour. Some examples:

By Senator John L. McClellan, Arkansas Democrat: "I fear that if we allow and encourage the flow of obscene material, there will be no stopping these sex offenders. This filth is stimulating to them, they feed on it and the commission would guarantee that they have their fill. I do not think that the Senate should allow this report—which would substitute for morality—to stand unchallenged."

By Senator John Stennis, Mississippi Democrat: "The report gives the impression that the majority of the commission have essentially given up on human nature and are prepared to accept a very cynical view of any inherent good in the human soul."

By Senator Gordon Allott, Colorado Republican: "This report is revolting. I am incensed at the pseudoscientific testing financed by the commission involving measuring the reaction of young men exposed to pornographic material. This is one of the worst abuses of commission power I have ever seen."

Senator Walter F. Mondale, Minnesota Democrat, defended the role of the commission chairman, William Lockhart, dean of the University of Minnesota Law school. Understandably, no one rose to support the report itself. It is truly unsupportable.

Campus Speaking Circuit

The campus speaking circuit is a source of significant financing for speakers "publicly identified with militant, radical, or Communist-oriented groups," according to a survey report of the House Internal Security Committee.

Not only are these appearances revenue-producing—67 speakers were paid a total of $109,243 by 127 colleges and universities queried—but afford a forum where the radicalization process may be continually expanded, the survey report adds.

The committee could not find out how the speaker's fees were used, so it stopped short of concluding that the campus speeches finance riots and revolution. But it did decide that the nation's colleges are being used to raise money and provide forums for speakers who promote disorderly and revolutionary activities.

The demand of students for free speech on the campus has forwarded this purpose. They seem to think that free speech is for bringing radicals to campus. For a well balance judgment, they should also hear the other side of the argument.

Once again, the militants get their way because they demand it. The result is that such men as the defendants in the Chicago Seven case and their lawyers criss cross the country raising havoc and stirring revolt, while the college administrator, faculty and quiet students hide their feelings. The harm is done on the forum. The silent majority of students and faculty must assert themselves if free speech—actual free speech—is to return to the campus.

Nixon Is Asking People For 'Vote of Confidence'

WASHINGTON — President Nixon, by his participation in the campaigns in several states for Republican members of the Senate and House or Representatives, is, in effect, asking the American people to give him a "vote of confidence" on election day, November 3.

This is the custom to a certain extent in parliamentary governments in many parts of the world. As a rule, the party which has had a majority, if victorious, keeps in office the man who has been serving as prime minister. If, on the other hand, the opposition party wins the election, there is an immediate change of premier and cabinet.

In the United States a president can ask for a "vote of confidence" and thereby the election of a majority from his party in order to control the selection of committee chairmen and the procedures of Congress. But the people have not always responded favorably, and he remains in office embarrassed by the defeat. As World War I was drawing to a close in 1918, a Democratic Party President—Woodrow Wilson—appealed to the nation for a Democratic Congress, but the election gave the Republicans a majority in both Houses. In 1946, just after World War II ended, President Truman in midterm failed to retain a Democratic Congress as the Republicans won control of the Senate and House.

There is not as much emphasis in the United States as in other countries on the importance of a single-party rule for the executive and legislative branches of the government combined. Former Vice President Nixon, in a three-cornered race in 1968, won the presidency, but a majority in the two Houses of Congress went to the Democrats. This has prevented progress on many important pieces of legislation. There has been dissent even within the President's own party on some issues, though he has picked up support from several Democrats.

Notwithstanding these frustrating circumstances, Mr. Nixon has not come out with a blanket request for an All-Republican majority in Congress, and he is not campaigning against any of those Democrats who have voted for his measures. The voter is being urged, particularly in the North, to elect Republican candidates. Vice-President Agnew handles the exceptions, or the President stands aloof from such contests.

The situation is full of complexities for Mr. Nixon. He apparently decided to campaign for his Republican supporters and remain silent about certain Republicans who have failed to vote for the measures he has proposed. The net result is to lessen the impact of the demand that has usually been made for an all-out victory at the polls for the members of a President's party.

Congressional elections, moreover, are affected to a large extent by sectional issues. Many voters stay away from the polls because they are unfamiliar with the pros and cons of the questions being debated and don't know just where nominees for the House or the Senate in their areas really stand.

The total vote in the coming election is expected to be relatively small. Even in a Presidential contest a big percentage doesn't go to the polls. In 1968, approximately 28 million out of the 124 million citizens of voting age registered but didn't vote. The actual number who voted in the 1968 election was tabulated as about 73.3 million. This was 60.8 per cent of the voting-age total and 80.8 percent of those who had registered.

The difficulty about a Congressional election is that it is not like a Presidential election, which usually centers attention on the two top nominees from two major parties. A small percentage of the citizens of each 435 Congressional districts can be expected to know the competence of the candidates or to be familiar with meaning of the issues.

There are 35 Senate seats open for election this year. But here, too, the voters probably would be inclined to follow the party leadership of a President in office or national leaders of the opposing party if the issues were definitely related to a party platform adopted well in advance of election day and made known to the voters at least two months before the elections.

The present system has long been under criticism, and the Legislative branch of the government operates far more efficiently when a President's party is in control. Change could come every four years, and the terms of Senators and Representatives, if fixed at four years, would probably be better fulfilled than now. Members of the House of Representatives feel it is necessary to begin to spend much of their time back home campaigning just about 18 months after they have been elected.

Pryor's Probe Reveals Filth, Cruelty in Nursing Homes

WASHINGTON — Rep. Dave Pryor, D-Ark., who moonlighted as a volunteer to learn first-hand of snakepit conditions in American nursing homes, has now been frustrated in his effort to start a special congressional investigation of the homes.

The roadblock is William Colmer, D-Miss., the 80-year-old House Rules Committee chairman, who apparently has little compassion for less fortunate members of his age group.

Colmer turned down Pryor's request to plead his case before the all-important Rules Committee. He held that several other committees already had jurisdiction over the nursing home mess.

Pryor, more concerned with the suffering aged than congressional protocol, argued that the other committees had ignored the situation. But Colmer was unmoved.

Pryor himself has gotten 7,000 letters on how the homes treat patients. Some tell of outstanding facilities and kindly staffs.

But this column, in reviewing almost 1,000 of the letters and reports to Pryor, found many more cases of appalling conditions and practices, some too grisly to print.

At one home a shift of staffers as a "prank for revenge loaded the patients with laxatives so the next shift would have work cleaning up." One patient was so weakened by the laxatives she almost died.

In Arizona, a nurse's aide told Pryor of a 91-year-old man who lay in his own filth for two or three weeks with "eight full urine cans and three full bedpans setting under his bed."

In an Illinois home, each patient was charged $8 for toenail trims, even though one had only one foot. Yet costs were no measure of care.

Some $1,000-a-month homes were described as greedy siphons for Medicare and Medicaid funds. A Texas nurse told how private patients were charged $3 for medicine while the home managers charged $6 for Medicare patients. She said care was bad for both.

Food was a nation wide complaint. In Arkansas, the home "fries one chicken for 19 people." A woman got "the topend of a wing" as her portion.

Cleanliness is impossible in some homes. A California woman "went nine days without a bath and a change of hospital gown." A 90-year-old Texas woman was allowed "to take a bath alone. She couldn't turn off the hot water and was scalded to death."

In Michigan, a woman found "my mother tied in bed, her hands tied to the rail." A California woman was tied in her chair "regardless of how tired she got and how much she begged to be put to bed."

The tales of petty thievery, cruelty and overcharges to patients and the Federal programs are almost endless. The Congressman, on his own, called a national forum on nursing homes to meet in Washington today.

FOOTNOTE: The Department of Housing and Urban Development made a sugary film showing the glories of nursing home life. Pryor was so furious at HUD's use of "model" homes as the subject that he bullied HUD Secretary George Romney into suspending showing of the film. The action brought down the wrath of the nursing homes' trade group, the American Nursing Home Association, then meeting at the plush Americana Hotel in Miami Beach.

Alabama Globetrotter

Rep. Bill Dickinson, the handsome giant from Alabama, has become one of Congress' foremost globetrotters. And he has a record of chronic absenteeism on crucial votes to prove it.

In his three terms in the House, Dickinson has visited 29 countries, ranging from Switzerland to Tahiti. His travels have cost the taxpayers at least $13,000.

Meanwhile, Dickinson has missed hundreds of votes on the House floor. In 1966, for example, he failed to answer 161 roll calls, nearly 40 per cent of the roll call votes that year. In 1968, he missed 107 roll calls.

While it is not unusual for Congressmen to miss some votes, it is extraordinary for a member to be absent when issues of great interest to his constituents are decided.

Dickinson, however, has been absent six times when the House voted on the busing of school children to achieve racial balance. He was also absent when the House voted on the Stennis amendment requiring that integration guidelines be enforced equally in the North and South.

Dickinson has taken more junkets in his six years in office than any Alabama Congressman. And he has rarely failed to spend the maximum amount of the taxpayers' money on his travels.

On his first foreign excursion in 1965, Dickinson visited seven South American countries, including the resort island of Trinidad. He ran up a $900 tab for expenses. Since it was an 18-day trip and the maximum amount that can be charged to the public is $50 a day, Dickinson spent exactly as much as he possibly could.

In addition to his $900 bill for expenses, the government also picked up Dickinson's $1,000 air travel bill.

Two years later, Dickinson made a fact-finding trip to Southeast Asia with the Subcommittee on Vietnam of the House Armed Services Committee. On this junket he outspent everyone of the committee, including the chairman. His total bill was more than $2,700.

That same year he went again to Southeast Asia with another Services Subcommittee and again outspent all of his colleagues in running up a $2,646 bill.

Congressional travels often serve a useful purpose, but in many cases Dickinson's have been ill-disguised vacations at the taxpayers' expense.

NOTE: Dickinson called a press conference in Alabama but failed to answer our charges and tried instead to raise a smoke screen to cover the violations of the Federal Corrupt Practices Act. Dickinson said this was his "final word" on the subject. Perhaps he may now want to give a "final word" on his junketeering record.

Henry J. Taylor Says

Step-down in Inflation

The nation's purchasing agents are a hardheaded crowd who have to put their dollars on the line — and by the billions — come what may. Most are members of the National Association of Purchasing Management, and after the September quarter a NAPM survey asked them: "How's business?"

This a business country. Every farmer is in business. The fisherman, the banker, the factory man — all are in business. The girl who types your letters is in business. The man who fills the gas tank. The salesman who sells the goods. the engineer who runs the train. All are in business. Mill hand, ranch hand, TV singer, melon picker and manager — they're in business. And we all are also stockholders in the largest enterprise in the world, the United States Government, which likewise depends on business conditions for its support.

As business goes, so goes our ability to perform the public services. A government — any government — is a spender, not an earner. No government is a producer of wealth. The wealth must be produced by the people. Anything a government says it will give the people it must first take away from the people. Accordingly, "How's businesss?" has political and other implications for all of us, and for the entire free world, so vast that the question reaches into nearly everything.

There are many ways of getting answers to this from the horses' mouths, but asking the nation's purchasing agents is the best one I know — far better than government reports, which are often theoretical and long-delayed. In fact, these are ususally so theoretical and delayed that they are like looking at the speedometer after the car has run into the ditch.

With 1970's September quarter ended only the other day, the purchasing agents replied that new orders turned down sharply in September. Only in two Septembers in the past 15 years has this occurred. One was in 1959 during the great steel strike. The other was last year

The forward commitments of this impressive and redoubtable crew are the smallest and most short-term they have ever been during the 15 years of this inside survey. Thirty-eight per cent of the purchasing agents reply they are buying hand-to-mouth — the largest percentage ever recorded.

Before the September quarter began they were asked how it would shape up. Fifty per cent thought there would be no change. Thirty-eight per cent were relying on it being better than the previous quarter. Twelve per cent foresaw business worsening. But with the September quarter finished, only 22 per cent report business as being better, 31 per cent find it unchanged, and 47 per cent find that business has turned worse.

About one-third report fewer people on the payrolls in September than in August. This is the largest percentage since the 1957-58 and 1960-61 recessions. Only 7 per cent report increased employment. And 17 per cent report resorting to a shorter workweek to maintain their workforce for better business in the future.

Nine per cent expect their employment to go up during the remainder of the year. Twenty-one per cent see their employment falling further before any rise occurs.

They say that the decline during August in the price pressures on the countless things they buy faded in September. It promptly folded up like summer furniture. Members forced to pay higher prices turned upward to 46 per cent. Those paying less than in August turned down. But, blessings be, this is still far below the high peak of 76 per cent who reported paying higher prices within the past 12 months.

The consensus was that the battle against inflation is showing a step-down effect rather than a drop, or even a downward slide. Consumer spending accounts for about two-thirds of the gross national product, which is now approaching $1 trillion annually. And this stepdown effect instead of a slide is a watershed issue in the battle against inflation.

Candidate's 'Live' Appearance Better Than Trite TV Spots

By BRUCE BIOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A lot of sage types are saying television is running away with the political show these days, but in important ways they're overstating the case.

Fred Dutton, former Kennedy aide busy these days trying to help New York Democrats sell governorship nominee Arthur Goldberg's rather cumbersome personality, says television is taking 60 to 80 per cent of many campaign budgets this year — a new high.

In California, they've been saying for at least four years that in that sprawling state the campaign "begins on the tube at 6 o'clock every evening."

No question about it, that's where the big money is going. No question, either, that the art of the paid political commercial has reached a peak of sophistication. Everybody is hiring the acknowledged specialists like Charles Guggenheim, who has gained a reputation for excellence that makes him sort of the Alfred Hitchcock of political film.

Yet, after five weeks on the road viewing various key Senate and governorship campaigns, I've concluded that the best efforts are being made by those who know how to work their states in person.

Among these, so far, are Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts and Govs. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Francis Sargent of Massachusetts. None of these fellows neglects the tube. Obviously, Rockefeller and Kennedy can and do hire the best television masters. But they go beyond. Says a Kennedy aide:

"He's our biggest asset. The most important thing is where he is today, tomorrow and the next day."

Obviously, it's the same for that veteran battery-charger, Rockefeller. When anybody gauging his political future says "great campaigner" he isn't talking about his fancy television spots but the man himself. What Rocky has that shows all the time is love of the game. You don't have to package it for the screen, and anyway it's better in the flesh.

"If you like people and like problems, this is the business to be in," says the governor.

In Tennessee, beleaguered old Sen. Albert Gore, fighting for survival, has some of the juiciest television stuff ever put on, showing him playing checkers with oldsters in his home town county square and meeting an ancient chap who says he told the senator six years ago he hoped he'd live long enough to vote for him once more. The man winds up saying: "Well, Albert, here I am."

Good show, Brother Guggenheim. Except that a friend of Gore's who watched his expert television spots during the hot summer before the primary decided that what came through after many viewings was Gore's arrogance.

An astute Illinois politician says he thinks the point has been reached where so much television production expertise is being employed by political candidates that the stuff is tending to cancel itself out.

We may not be far from that moment when the viewer who sees a candidate with his coat slung over his shoulder in the now stereotyped "natural bit" may simply conclude that the guy can't afford a well-fitted suit.

With experts on both sides showing their candidates proving their human qualities by mixing with "the people" in endlessly "normal" situations, the ploy eventually is going to wear itself out. Television has a capacity for exhausting practically everything.

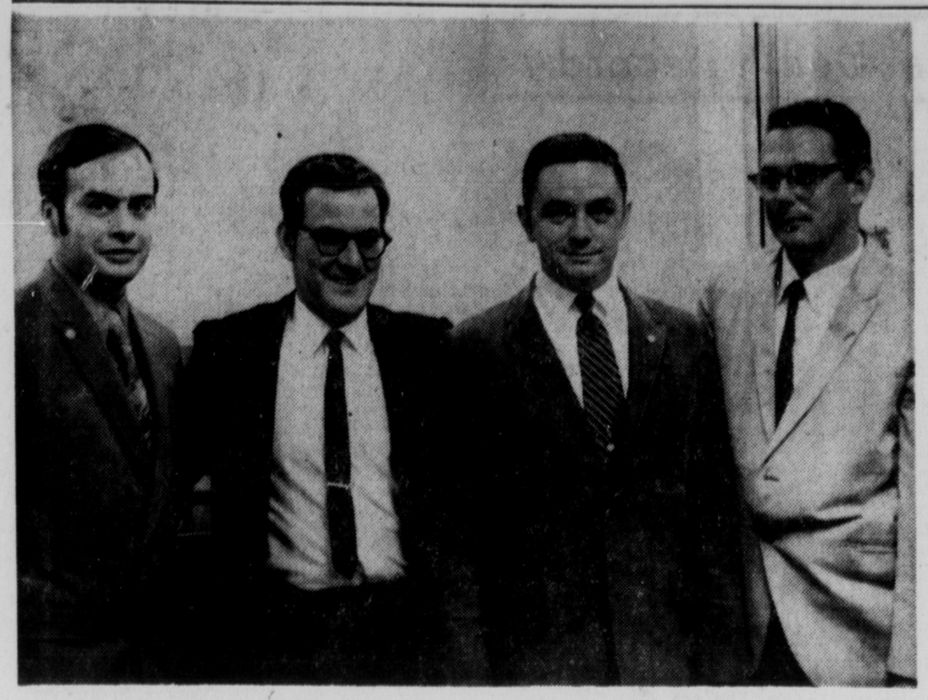

None of this means the medium will not be used heavily in the future just as now. But there is likely to be less stuff from the presently touted television production smarties and more activities which get the candidates on the regular news shows and on informal talk programs where they may perform less predictably.

We already have a good deal of this especially from the good campaigners who know how to make news without a production man at their elbow. And, in plan fact it is simply standard politics updated — to cope with the realities of urban sprawl, crushing traffic and a consistently distracted voting public. There has been plenty of change, but more fuss over it than it warrants.

Gollnick, a past president of Local 461, Kingston Uniformed Firefighters, will be assisted by Charles Colao, second from left, president of Colao Brothers Construction Inc., Kingston; Gerald Kelder, a local fireman, and Gordon Purhamus, secretary of Local 461.

Chest Sunday Set With House Drive

KINGSTON — General Campaign Chairman of this year's Ulster County Community Chest Anthony Triulzi announced today that in this fifteenth year of the Chest, another new innovation is bringing the needs of the fifteen member agencies to the people will be Community Chest Sunday. On Oct. 25, church bells throughout the county will toll at 1 p.m. said Triulzi, to ring in the one day house to house solicitation effort which will involve more than a thousand volunteers throughout the solicitation area. The fund-raisers will be canvassing from 1 to 6 p.m.

"The house to house drive is a part of the Community Organization Division of the Ulster County Community Chest. That division is under the very capable co-chairmanship of Miss Marion Tongue and Mrs. Lillian Salapatis, both of Kingston," continued the chairman.

In the various towns and communities, the canvassing effort is under the individual town chairman. Each of the chairmen has gathered his or her volunteer committee of interested citizens who want to help the Community Chest in its overall quest for $400,000.

Clergymen in the county have been requested to toll their church bells on the historic Sunday to serve as a reminder that the Community Chest is soliciting to make a better community by helping each of the fifteen agencies.

When Executive Director Richard W. Vendettuoli was asked where the idea for Community Chest Sunday originated, he said, "The idea was born in one of the many meetings held by the Volunteer Public Relations Committee, and immediately caught on with the Community Organization Division. It was then just a matter of getting a large number of volunteers together to do the soliciting. I was very gratified at the response that we received, and believe that this has to be the largest participation effort ever attempted by the Ulster County Community Chest."

"Our total goal as a division is $35,000," said Miss Tongue, in a joint announcement with Mrs. Salapatis. "We are very pleased with the response thus far and hope that with the splendid volunteer force we have gathered, that a substantial percentage of that goal can be made on Community Chest Sunday." Both Miss Tongue and Mrs. Salapatis have been working toward the house to house drive for several weeks before the kickoff of the Chest on Sept. 25.

The solicitation effort will take place regardless of weather conditions. Triulzi expressed his thanks to the clergymen of the county for their efforts in promoting the needs of the Ulster County Community Chest both on Community Chest Sunday by tolling their church bells and through their sermons delivered during the campaign.

Smokers dial is an extension of the internationally recognized Five-Day Plan to Stop Smoking which has already been successfully conducted in major cities across the nation including Kingston. Smokers Dial is also designed for people who have already quit smoking but need something to help maintain their resolve.

The community service is sponsored by the local action Unit for Better Living of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church, 30 Pearl Street.

The Five-Day program is scheduled to begin Sunday, Oct. 25, at the George Washington School Auditorium, located at 67 Wall Street, Kingston, at 7:30 p.m.

Boat Safety Course

KINGSTON — Flotilla 10-12 of the U.S. Coast Auxiliary will begin instruction on its Young Boatman's Safety Course, Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Kingston Power Boat Club on Abeel Street.

According to New York State law, youngsters between the ages of 10 and 14 must earn safety certificates before they may operate a mechanically propelled boat along New York State waters. They are issued safety certificates upon satisfactory completion of the Young Boatman's Safety Course.

The course in Kingston is being conducted by Charles Kohl, who is a volunteer instructor for the program. Approximately 1,500 such volunteer instructors are teaching the course in boating throughout New York State.

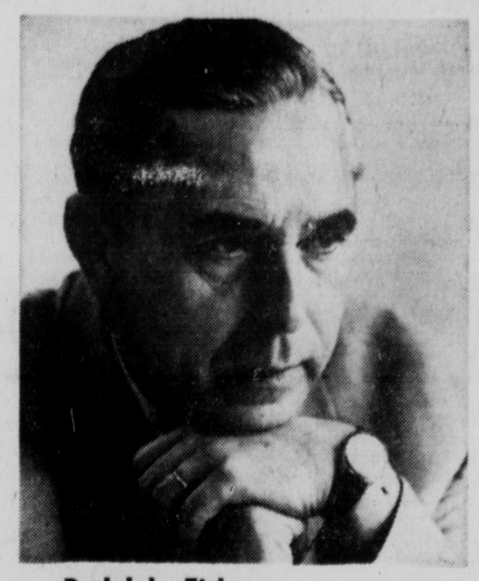

All course material is furnished free to youngsters taking the course and to the instructors by the Division of Motor Boats.

Plan books, work books and flip charts, all graphically illustrating basic safety requirements and precautions, are used in teaching the course. This material is based on the boating safety handbook entitled "Make Sure—Make Shore." Every youngster who takes the course is furnished with a copy of this handbook which he may keep after completing the course.

Kohl indicated that the course would be taught several times throughout the coming months. Area youngsters who have not enrolled for the course as yet should contact the local instructor as soon as possible.

Port Teachers Defy, Out for Fourth Day

PORT JERVIS, N.Y. (AP) — Most of the 160 Port Jervis district school teachers defied a court order and remained on strike today, for the fourth day, a spokesman for the Teachers Association reported.

The spokesman said he believed only an "acceptable" contract would settle the strike, which affects 3,500 pupils in six schools of the Enlarged City School District. He added, however, that "we don't really know at this point," since court arguments are slated for Thursday.

Asked for reaction to the march Monday night of approximately 100 high school pupils in support of a settlement, the teacher spokesman said the association hoped for resumption of contract negotiations but had been turned down by the school board.

The high school pupils pleaded in a statement: "We ask—we beg—for an education."

Justice Leonard Supple of State Supreme Court issued a temporary restraining order Monday in Goshen against the strike and set Thursday for an answer from the teachers to the school board complaint in this Southeastern New York area.

Monday night, Association President Wilson DeMyer declared: "We feel so strongly about the necessity for a proper bilateral settlement that it necessitates our continuing job action." He said association members had given him a vote of confidence.

The march of the high school pupils shifted from its original direction.

The pupils gathered in a park and marched to where the school board's regularly scheduled meeting was to be, but it had been canceled. Then they went to the teachers' meeting and talked with them.

The system's six schools have been struck since Thursday with token classes held only in the mornings. A teacher spokesman said 145 of the 160 Port Jervis teachers had observed picket lines Thursday and Friday.

Gen. Cardenas, 75, Dies Ex-President of Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Gen. Lazaro Cardenas, the revolutionary who kicked foreign oil companies out of mexico and gave 40 million acres of land to the peasants, is dead at 75.

Cardenas, president of Mexico from 1934 to 1940, died of cancer Monday at his home in Mexico City after several months of ill health.

One of the first groups to arrive at his residence after his death was a delegation from an oil workers' union. "This is to us like the death of a relative," said its leader.

Former President Emilio Portes Gill, who Cardenas followed in the presidency, said: "He accomplished great things not only for Mexico, but for Latin America."

Cardenas was closely associated with revolutionary groups throughout his life, sometimes opposing them but more often aiding or leading them. A lifelong leftist, he was a supporter of Fidel Castro's Communist government in Cuba. He received the Soviet Union's Lenin Peace Prize in 1955.

During his presidency he broke up large estates and plantations, including $10 million worth of American holdings, and launched Latin America's first major program to distribute land to the peasants.

He set another precedent for Latin America on March 18, 1938, when he nationalized the oil industry and expropriated properties of U.S. and British companies worth $400 million. Britain broke diplomatic relations and the United States stopped buying Mexican silver at preferential rates, forcing a devaluation of the peso.

Dr. Virginia Alekian Dies, Retired Woodstock Dentist

WOODSTOCK — Dr. Virginia Marie Alekian, 77, of Yerry Hill Road, this township, was found dead in her home Monday afternoon, according to the sheriff's office.

Deptuy Sheriffs William Maloney and Herbert O'Brien responded to a call from a Woodstock Police Department dispatcher, asking the deputies to check a report that a woman had fallen down stairs at her home. The deputies later reported they found Dr. Alekian dead at the foot of the stairs at her residence.

Authorities said she apparently had been dead a couple of days.

Ulster County Coroner Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties went to the scene to investigate with Maloney and O'Brien and Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the Staff of Sheriff William B. Martin.

It was reported that the Woman's death apparently was due to natural causes, a cerebral hemorrhage.

The woman was a member of the American Dental Association and practiced dentistry in Woodstock for 40 years until her retirement in 1965. She was a graduate of the University of Paris, France, and Columbia University New York City.

Nebraska Man Arrested on Fugitive Charge

TOWN OF ULSTER — A 27-year-old Nebraska man was arrested Monday by Kingston State Police on a fugitive from justice warrant issued by Omaha police.

Troopers said James Steven Kyslop of 3022 Paddock Road, Omaha, was arraigned before Town Justice Arthur A. Reilly who committed him to the Ulster County jail for a term not exceeding 30 days or until authorities arrive from Omaha to take the defendant into custody.

Kyslop is wanted in Omaha to face charges of fraud — issuing checks — a felony. The arrest was made at a local hotel by Senior BCI Investigator Charles Teelon and Investigator David Wachtel.

Picket Lines At Barclay

PORT EWEN — Picket lines were set up shortly after 7 a.m. today at the Barclay Knitwear Company, Inc., on Route 9W in this community by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union Local 259 AFL-CIO of Kingston, according to the union manager Julius Sippen.

Sippen said the union set up the lines of pickets as an unfair labor practice strike "protesting conditions established at the plant to deny workers of a free and democratic choice" as to whether they want a union or not.

The union official said the matter relates only to warehousing personnel.

Commenting on the situation, Sam Berger, an assistant to the executive vice president of the company said, there is no union involved, we have never been approached by a union, and there never has been any demand for recognition or to discuss a union. He further commented that a small percentage of the employes went out on their own.

Judge Concerned

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A state Supreme Court judge said Monday he was worried by a lack of security in his courtroom and demanded that the Erie County sheriff's office provide better protection.

Justice Frederick M. Marshall said he was angered Monday when a man who had just been sentenced to a long prison term was passed an overcoat by a relative. He said a deputy handed the coat to the prisoner without searching it for a possible weapon.

"I walked with one deputy who had not one minute of training and was not even aware of the rules and regulations for court deputies," Marshall said.

Memoriam

In loving memory of George J. Jankowski, who passed away 10 years ago, Oct. 20, 1960.
The treasure chest of memories
We hold so very dear,
Helps to ease the hurt inside
And keep you very near
No one will ever take your place
Or brush away the tears
Because we still can see your face
We loved so many years.

Memoriam

In memory of Cheryl and Ronnie Rowles on Ronnie's seventh birthday, Oct. 20.
It seems like only yesterday
We laughed and ran and played
And then one day You came along
And took them far away.
They're playing now in that heavenly land
Beyond the bright blue sky
While here on earth a lonely boy
Asks one question,
"God, why did they have to die?"
KEVIN BRAUER

Memoriam

In memory of Cheryl and Ronnie Rowles on Ronnie's seventh birthday, Oct. 20, Happy Birthday baby.
You went on your greatest adventure
The day God called you home
But part of us went with you
You didn't go all alone!
Our hearts were broken the day you left,
It was so unexpected
And only God knows the reason why,
He needed you in heaven.

Boiceville Man State Aide With MARS

KINGSTON

Lloyd Humphrey, AF2EWV, of Boiceville has been appointed assistant New York State Military Affiliate Radio System (MARS) director by the State director, Dr. Theron Philley. Humphrey is a member of the Mid-Hudson Mars Group.

Donald B. Masten of Milton was appointed net manager of the Mid-Hudson VHF MARS group replacing Edward Linde of Poughkeepsie who recently resigned to devote more time to the MARS Youth Training Program and his local Boy Scout Troop. He is presently teaching radio code to a class of eight boy scouts.

The Mid-Hudson MARS group has been able to obtain the use of a radio repeater, a radio receiver that retransmits Very High Frequency Signals sent to it, thus increasing the range of low power radio stations in the area. This repeater will be installed near Overlook Mountain.

One of the main objectives of MARS is to handle, free of charge, morale radio messages to service men at home and overseas, especially at holiday time. Anyone wishing to send a message via radio should contact any one of the MARS members.

Prior to the closing of the Stewart Air Force Base at Newburgh, the MARS group met at Stewart Field monthly. Since the closing, members participate in a radio communications net three nights a week to handle radio messages that come into the area and go out of the area. The net is part of a Nationwide Military Affiliate Radio System that sends messages all over the world to and from service men.

Sen. Dodd in Crucial Role

Even Astrologers Unsure About Connecticut

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI)— Even the astrologers are unsure of the outcome of the U.S. Senate contest in Connecticut. The incumbent is fighting as an independent for political life; the Democrat is leading the race, and the Republican is closing in fast.

One thing is certain: Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, the Democrat turned independent, is playing a crucial role in the three-man race.

The Rev. Joseph D. Duffey, 38, who won the Democratic nomination with 43.5 per cent of the vote in a three-way party primary (not including Dodd), has been a consistent leader in the polls. But his Republican opponent, U.S. Rep. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., 39, touted by President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, is breathing little dust and some predict he'll win. Dodd trails.

Duffey, national chairman of the Liberal Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) and a United Church of Christ Minister, has been suffering lately, however, from the phrase "Marxist revisionist," which he once referred to himself in criticizing the so-called new left of American politics.

"I guess you could call me a sort of Marxist revisionist, but certainly I had very little sympathy with the Maoists," Duffey said while comparing himself with anti-communist critics, according to the book "An American Melodrama." It was an account of the 1968 election campaign. Duffey critics chose to publicize just the two words, however, in attempting to undercut his Senate bid.

Agnew evoked the term "Marxist revisionist" about two weeks ago during a Midwest speaking tour but, Dodd and Weicker had used it before him. Duffey, who maintains the words are being taken out of context, responded to the Weicker-Agnew criticism by calling the vice president a "cowardly liar" and challenging him to repeat the "smear tactics" to his face. Agnew speaks in Hartford Friday.

Dodd's pluses include his recognition as a lifelong Democrat, a split in labor backing and the tendency of some party leaders to support him over Duffey. Against the two-term lawmaker is his Senate censure in 1967 for misuse of $116,085 in campaign funds, his independent candidacy and a recent heart attack.

Dodd, 63, says he wants to continue in the Senate to finish his work. It's a reminder to the voters, who indicated in the polls that many of them are still undecided about the Senate race.

Those same polls put U.S. Rep. Thomas J. Meskill, 44, the Republican candidate for governor, ahead of his Democratic rival, U.S. Rep. Emilio Q. Daddario, 51.

The congressional races may see some reshuffling, but the Democrats are expected to retain the 4-2 split. The senatorial race is the focus of attention, though.

Bell Supports Amendment On Criminal Justice Dept.

ALBANY — Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (R-Woodstock) today affirmed his support for the proposed constitutional amendment which would create a State Department of Criminal Justice.

The amendment received first passage at the 1970 Legislative session. If it is reapproved by the 1971 session, it will be submitted to the voters in a referendum in next year's election.

"A Department of Criminal Justice will fill an enormous vacuum in the State," Assemblyman Bell said. "At the moment, we are forced to fight crime on a local, piecemeal basis. Unless we mount a coordinated attack, we face the prospect that organized crime will further extend the iron grasp in which it holds many activities within our society."

The proposed amendment to the State Constitution would also provide for legislative enactment of laws to assist, coordinate and supervise district attorneys, sheriffs, probation, corficers, police and other law enforcement agencies.

"The primary purpose of the Department of Criminal Justice would be to give the State more effective law enforcement," Assemblyman Bell said. "In addition, it would provide for more coordination between the activities of state and local lawmen."

Under the proposed Department, State activity in the field of law enforcement would be combined to include various State departments, offices and agencies under a single umbrella. The Department could encompass, for example, the State Police, the New York State Identification and Intelligence System, the Department of Correction and the Narcotics Addiction Control Commission.

"The Department of Criminal Justice would complement the Office of the Attorney General, rather than conflict with it, since the Attorney General's work is largely in the field of civil law," Assemblyman Bell pointed out. "The proposal will also bring about greater coordination and supervision of local law enforcement agencies. I firmly believe it is the next needed step in our fight against crime."

Unemployment In State Shows August Drop

ALBANY, N. Y. (UPI)— The state's unemployment rate for September showed a slight drop compared with August but was still higher than the same period in 1969, State Industrial Commissioner M. P. Catherwood announced today.

Catherwood said the September jobless rate was 4.4 per cent of the work force, compared with 4.5 per cent in August. In September of 1969, the rate was 3.3 per cent.

Total employment in the state was 8,050,000 in September, down 75,000 from August and a drop of 20,000 over September a year ago.

Catherwood said total employment of 4,132,600 in New York City was the highest for any September on record. The figure, however, was 36,500 less than the total employment in the city in August.

2 Men Charged With Burglary

CATSKILL

Two men were arrested Monday by Leeds State Police on charges of third degree burglary as the result of an investigation of a complaint of a Cairo restaurant a week ago.

According to authorities the men were accused of forcing their way through a locked door in the rear of the Bon Fire Restaurant on Route 32, and allegedly taking about $6,300 in cash.

Arrested by Senior BCI Investigator M. P. Mattera were Richard Rodriquez, 23, of R.D. 1, of Freehold, and 20-year-old William Dittmar of Cairo.

The two men were arraigned before Cairo Town Justice Charles W. Link. Pleas of innocent were entered and the defendants were remanded to the Greene County Jail in lieu of $7,500 bail each pending a hearing on Nov. 6.

The investigation is continuing by the BCI officers at the Leeds Station. The arrests were made on warrants issued by Justice Link.

Lively Debate...

especially Congress, monitor the agencies responsible for the enforcement.

Greaney equated Fish to a "rubber stamp" for Nixon and cited several instances of agreement between the two.

He advocated "getting strong with big business" as the way to curb inflation, and said that Nixon had vetoed $450 million additional for education and then gave $900 million to Penn Central, a big business.

And Greaney stressed his "identity with the people," saying that he was not born with a silver spoon in his mouth. When he sat down, he received the biggest hand of the night.

When Fish was asked what could be substituted for war to keep the economy strong, he answered that he didn't think the country "is dependent on defense," but that the creation of new cities looked "promising."

Saccoman said he had 30 years' experience as an appraiser, and would spend his time trouble-shooting "in the field."

Johnson qualified himself as a coroner because of investigative experience, saying he was the first qualified man to run for office in 21 years.

Judge Denies Defense Motions In Black Panther Bomb Trial

NEW YORK (UPI)—The prosecution at the Black Panther trial here Monday said the 13 defendants had planned in 1969 to bomb Abercrombie and Fitch with the hope of obtaining weapons from the store's seventh floor gun room.

Assistant District Attorney Joseph A. Phillips, in his opening remarks, also said he would prove the defendants planned and carried out a "strategic attack" in 1969 against a school building and a number of police stations.

The trial was scheduled to resume today with the defense expected to make its opening remarks.

In his 2 1-2-hour statement Phillips said that in February 1969 the Panthers planned during the Easter shopping season to bomb a number of department stores including Macy's, Korvettes, Alexander's and Bloomingdale's.

Phillips said defendant William King took particular interest in Abercrombie and Fitch apparently believing that would be "the jackpot."

When Phillips finished, the six defense attorneys and two defendants acting as their own counsel moved to dismiss most of the 30-count indictment.

Presiding Justice John M. Murtagh while noting the "technical merit," of defense contentions, denied all the motions.

During his opening remarks Phillips said police undercover agents had substituted fake sticks of dynamite for real explosives in a "planned" attack on two police stations in January, 1969.

Phillips credited undercover detective Ralph White with finding the dynamite cache in a briefcase behind a refrigerator in the office of an antipoverty agency in the Bronx.

White took the dynamite cache, Phillips said, to bomb squad detectives, who made up sticks of clay covered with powdered oatmeal which White put back in the hiding place.

Phillips said the "daring and imaginative undercover work" saved the lives of a number of policemen. "We will follow this simulated dynamite all through this case," Phillips said.

Post, Newspaper Guild Agree on Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Post and the New York Newspaper Guild today reached tentative agreement on a new contract, ending a two-week strike against the newspaper, labor mediator Theodore Kheel announced.

Kheel announced the agreement after a 17-hour negotiating session. The Guild struck the Post Oct. 6, forcing a shutdown of the Post, the only major Manhattan-based afternoon daily.

Details of the agreement were not announced immediately.

The old contract expired March 30 and the Guild workers continued to work without a contract until Oct. 6, when talks with the newspaper broke down and the 430 guildsmen set up picket lines.

Strikes were authorized by Guild units at the New York Times and The New York Daily News but no dates set. Both morning papers continued to publish during the strike at the Post.

The Guild sought increased fringe benefits on a citywide agreement reached by the Post, the News, the Times and the Long Island Press with six of nine craft unions. The settlements provide for salary increases of 41.69 per cent over a three-year period.

The Guild dispute with the Post focused on how the increases were to be distributed through wage categories and whether the Guild was entitled to a pension program such as the craft unions have and a severance on retirement policy. Post management said they could not afford to give guilds men both.

Under the old contract experienced newsmen and photographers received $239.55. The increases of 41.69 per cent would increase weekly wages $99.72.

Woman Hurt In City Mishap

KINGSTON

A two-car mishap that occurred Monday at Hasbrouck and Foxhall Avenues, resulted in injuries sustained by one of the drivers, Patricia Rust, 38, of R.D. 2, Box 318-C, Kingston, according to city police.

The injured woman was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance Service. She was treated for contusions of the right arm and right foot, police said. The other vehicle was operated by John Butnor, 24, of 277 Albany Avenue.

Another accident reported to police yesterday involved cars driven by Joel Frank, 35, of Spring Valley, and Harry M. Thayer, 62, of 43 Crown Street. Frank, who was treated at Benedictine Hospital for a whiplash of the back, told police he was stopped on Clinton Avenue waiting for the traffic light at the Pearl Street Albany Avenue intersection to change when his car was hit in the rear by the suburban vehicle operated by Thayer.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

When patching plastered walls, the best "recipe" for plaster is to mix the plaster with vinegar and water (half and half), instead of plain water.

Vinegar will keep the plaster from setting too fast, makes it more pliable, and easier to work with.

After pushing the mixture into the larger cracks, dip your paint brush in water and paint across the area. Use a water-color brush for hairline cracks.

An old, damp piece of toweling is a good thing to use for "stippling" the area. Gives it a rougher texture to match the rest of the wall.

Try this method, it has worked for me for years.

Miss Molly

I checked with a professional plasterer, and sure enough, he said you had hit upon one of the "trade secrets."

Bully for you for being so sharp and unselfish . . . you sweet sharin' soul.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

My very smart hubby has come up with a great idea for getting wax out of glass candle holders with no muss, fuss or bother.

Just put the container in your freezer for about a half hour, then when you take it out, loosen it slightly and it will drop right out of your glass with no wax left to clean out or off.

Evelyn Miskimon

DEAR HELOISE:

When I buy a new set of sheets, the first thing I do is run a stitched line down the center of each sheet with my machine.

When I make my beds, I save a lot of walking from side to side to make sure the sheet is centered.

Janet

DEAR HELOISE:

What a pleasure to use a pastry brush for the gooey job of greasing pans.

To keep from getting right back into the gooey job of washing the pastry brush, why not sack it in plastic or wrap it in foil and refrigerate. Stays fresh and ready for use.

Mrs. E. Schor

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

DEAR HELOISE:

Our young son had warmed the bench all season for baseball's "Peewee League."

Each game he would yearn so to be sent in to play, and finally in the last game the coach sent him in.

Watching from the stands, we were as excited as he was, as we saw him trot across the diamond.

Then he stopped, turned, and shouted for all to hear:

"Hey Coach, which one is left field?"

Lefty's Mom

DEAR HELOISE:

I was exasperated trying to get ALL the pepper out of the little slot in a pepper can. Then I discovered that the prying end of my car opener will lift the entire lid off, and I can get the last speck out.

Am I the last to know?

Lynda T.

Nope, I'm next — but I'll bet I'm not even last. This will probably work on spice cans as well.

A penny savin' idea, and you know what they make! Dollars . . .

Dear Heloise:

Have you ever cooked a pot of green beans with a big chunk of ham and whole new potatoes and had lots of pot liquor left over?

Well, never toss this out because when heated and seasoned with salt and pepper, and served in mugs with cheese and crackers you've got a real tasty TV snack.

Mrs. Barbara Payne

Handbag Design

Handbag designer Hilde Walborg believes in sending off evening dresses in a blaze and she has created a group of glittering bags to do just that. A cyclinder, both small and large, is completely paved in rhinestones and has a lift-up lid that is a delicate expression of openwork metal. A pouch, also rhinestones paved, has a lift-up frame for easy interior access and a rounded fluid appearance.

ATTRACTING A CROWD—Oakland Raiders Hewritt Dixon (RB-35) goes for 12 yards in 2nd period against the Washington Redskins last night. Coming in for the stop are Skins' Art Shell (T-78), Gerald Irons (LB-86). On ground is Raiders Harry Schuh (T-79). (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Rookie - Veteran Point Up Oakland Raiders' Future

OAKLAND (UPI) — A rookie on his way up and a veteran on his way back have illuminated the 1970 prospects of the Oakland Raiders.

Smiling Ray Chester, a brilliant young tight end, and proud fullback Hewritt Dixon came through with their most productive performances of 1970 as the Raiders blistered Washington, 34 - 20, Monday night in a National Football League interconference game.

Chester, Oakland's No. 1 draft choice, caught eight passes for 110 yards. Dixon, an eight-year veteran nagged by injuries last season, bolted and battered his way to 104 yards in the first half and a game total of 164.

"This was a helluva team effort," Chester said afterward. "Dixon was something else. We finally put everything together."

Chester, a Morgan State graduate who sports a thick mustache, long sideburns and a relaxed smile, was the recipient of only two passes from Oakland quarterback Daryle Lamonica in the first half. Chester caught six in the second half as the Raiders got into the end zone twice in the third quarter to put the game out of reach with a big 34-13 lead.

Lamonica also connected for touchdowns of 28 and 24 yards to Warren Wells and 16 yards to running back Charlie Smith.

Dixon stunned a record Oakland crowd of 54,471 by rambling for a masterful 39-yard touchdown run on the Raiders' first play from scrimmage. Dixon turned left end on a power sweep and suddenly cut back against the grain. He outraced the Redskin secondary and made it to the extreme right corner of the end zone after wide receiver Fred Biletnikoff delivered a great crack-back block.

Dixon's touchdown run was followed minutes later by Wells' initial touchdown catch as the Raiders took a quick 14-0 lead. But 14-year pro Sonny Jurgensen went to work for 'he He threw a 39-yard scoring bomb to Charley Taylor and set up a pair of field goals by Curt Knight to bring Washington within seven points at intermission, 20-13.

Lamonica found Wells and Redskins, missing only four of 16 first half passing attempts. Smith for third quarter touchdowns while the Oakland defense toughened in the second half. Jurgensen hit Jerry Smith with a 23-yard TD pass after the outcome had been decided.

Lamonica, who hit 19 of 27 passes for 232 yards, was matched by Jurgensen, who hit 24 of 31 for 232 yards.

Suffers Bone Fracture

Namath Will Miss First Regular Game

NEW YORK (UPI)—The New York Jets are hurting all over today because of a fractured small bone at the base of Joe Namath's right thumb.

The Jets announced Monday that Namath will be sidelined during next Sunday's game with the Buffalo Bills — marking the first time the star quarterback will miss a regular-season game because of an injury —and declined to speculate how much longer he will be out of action.

Dr. James Nicholas, the team physician, is expected to examine the injury today or tomorrow. X-rays revealed Monday that the navicular bone had been fractured during the Jets' 29-22 loss to the Baltimore Colts Sunday, but Dr. Nicholas was out of town and no long-range prediction will be made until he examines the injury.

Namath, who has been bothered by brittle knees during his pro career, was held out his first game as a member of the Jets in 1965 but has played every regular - season game since then.

Namath suggested Monday that he might be able to plav Sunday if a protective cast were put on the hand, but "there is no possibility this can happen, although it just shows the type competitor Joe is."

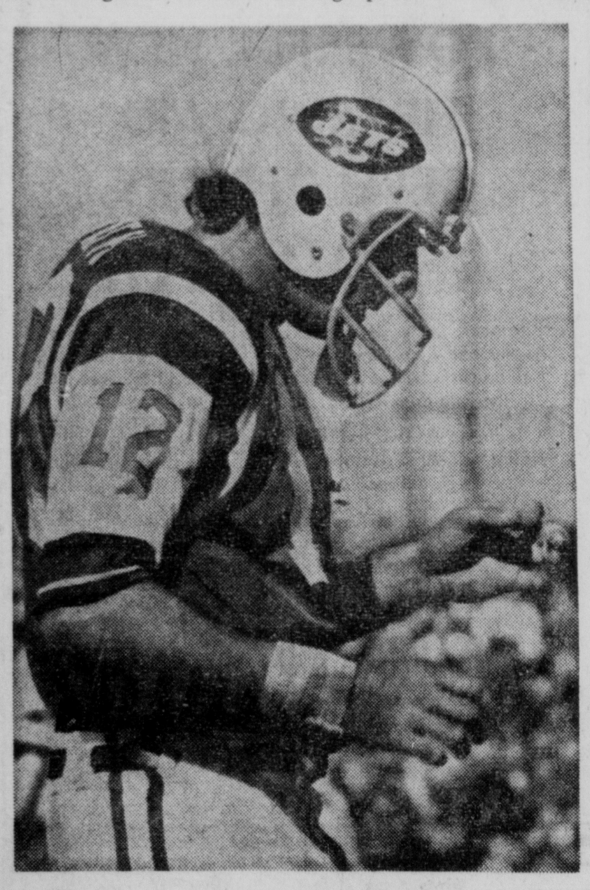

Ewbank added he will take a look this week at Bob Davis, a member of the Jets' taxi squad, who is playing for the Jersey Jays of the Atlantic Coast Football League. Kicker Jim Turner and Al Woodall are the only quarterbacks, besides Namath, on the Jets' roster.

The Jets, who have a 1-4 record and are all but mathematically out of the running for the Eastern Division title in the American Conference of the National Football League, had previously lost the services of star running back Matt Snell.

Namath threw 62 passes and completed 34 for 397 yards against the Colts, but the Jets gained only 37 yards rushing and six of Joe's passes were intercepted.

The possibility that Namath will be sidelined for a major portion of the season raised fresh speculation about his retirement plans. Namath talked about retiring for personal reasons last summer, but rejoined the team after it had played two exhibition games.

The former Alabama star, who was originally signed to a $400,000 contract, led the Jets to a Super Bowl victory over the Colts in 1969 and is regarded by most experts as one of the best field leaders and passers in pro football history.

JOE NAMATH

Ara Waiting for the Call

That old bowl magic's got Ara Parseghian in its spell.

"The bowl games might very well decide the national champion again this year," says Parseghian, who obviously puts nis Notre Dame team in the picture with Ohio State and Texas.

And why not? Notre Dame is No. 3 again this week behind front-running Ohio State and No. 2 Texas in The Associated Press' college football poll.

Parseghian wouldn't mind clearing up some of the poll business earlier by playing Ohio State in regular season—but the Buckeyes won't have any part of it.

"We've tried to add Ohio State to our schedule," Parseghian told The Associated Press Monday night. "But they've refused."

Coach Woody Hayes of the Buckeyes reached by telephone later, admitted: "I have not been interested in adding Notre Dame to the schedule."

Ohio State continued to lead the rankings with 668 points from a panel of sports writers and broadcasters throughout the country. Texas had 630 points and Notre Dame 585.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Nebraska; Michigan; Auburn; Air Force; Stanford; Arkansas and Southern California.

Parseghian obviously wants that No. 1 ranking.

He believes in Poll Power.

"The polls are great, they give you the relative strength of the teams around the country," he says, putting down those who say polls are not the true measure of a team's worth.

"We all recognize that on any given Saturday anything can happen. No. 1 can lose to No. 19—it's part of the game. But it doesn't mean polls are not accurate."

Martin Chooses New Tiger Staff

DETROIT (UPI)—New manager Billy Martin today confirmed the selection of Art Fowler as the Detroit pitching coach next season and also announced Charlie Silvera would join the Tigers as bullpen coach.

The two join Joe Schultz, previously selected as the Tigers' new third base coach. One more coach will be added to Martin's staff.

Fowler, who with Silvera worked under Martin when he managed Minnesota in 1969, was revealed as the coach to tutor Tiger pitchers last week by United Press International. The selection of Silvera came as no surprise, either.

The 48-year-old Fowler, a grandfather, doubled as a relief pitcher and coach at Denver of the American Association last season, his 26th on the mound. He had a 9-5 record with 15 saves in 45 games and appeared in his 1,000th professional game during the year.

He spent 10 years in the minors before popping up with the Cincinnati Reds in 1954, where he stayed through 1957. After a trip to the minors again, Fowler resurfaced with the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1959 and came over to the cross-town Angels in 1961, where he remained until 1964.

Name Houk AL Skipper

POMPANO BEACH, Fla. (P) —Yankee skipper Ralph Houk was stunned momentarily at being named American League Manager of the Year and then hinted New York just might win it all in 1971.

"If I didn't figure we had a chance," said Houk, "I wouldn't ever put on a uniform."

Baltimore overwhelmed the AL's Eastern Division in 1970 and skipped away with the World Series. Despite the Oriole accomplishments, Earl Weaver failed again to be named the No. 1 manager.

"I assumed it would be Earl," Houk said. "Baltimore won everything in sight. But, if the Yankees deserve the honor, it should go to the ballplayers and not me."

Houk took a floundering ex-powerhouse and finished second by winning 93 games. The former army major believes only a slight improvement might shove aside the "Big Bird Machine."

"I believe that winning 100 games might do it next year," he said, "because Detroit will be a lot better, Boston will improve and Cleveland has got to bet better with the young talent the Indians have."

Houk received 118 votes to Weaver's 73 in a nationwide Associated Press poll of sportswriters and broadcasters. Bill Rigney of the Western Division champion Minnesota Twins received 59, Lefty Phillips of the California Angels got 32, Milwaukee's Dave Bristol got three and Washington's Ted Williams two.

It was rookie skipper Williams who nudged Weaver for Manager of the Year honors in 1969 after Baltimore won the pennant and was socked by the New York Mets in the World Series.

Houk was readying his sleek fishing boat for the warm pleasures of a Florida winter when the news came by telephone.

"It's due to kids like Bill Munson, Johnny Ellis and a lot of experienced hands like Danny Cater, Bobby Murcer and Roy White," he said. "We've got a new thing going with the Yankees—not so much muscle, but a lot of fellows who can hit 15-20 homers for you."

Baseball Trades in The Air

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball teams, hoping to land that player who'll put them in the winner's circle, begin wheeling and dealing today as the interleague trading period begins.

A flurry of intra-league trading activity before and during the World Series indicated more to come in the trading period between the American and National leagues ending Dec. 15.

Among names mentioned in possible trades are Frank Robinson, the Baltimore Orioles' fence-breaking outfielder; Pittsburgh's outfielder Matty Alou; Orlando Cepeda, Atlanta's much-traveled slugger and hard-hitting catcher Tim McCarver of Philadelphia.

Richie Allen, Denny McClain and Tony Conigliaro have already changed uniforms and the services of controversial Curt Flood are being bid for by the Washington Senators.

Owner Bob Short of Washington has already given Philadelphia an unnamed player for the right to talk contract with Flood, the outfielder who sat out last season while challenging baseball's reserve clause in the courts.

The outfielder-rich Orioles reportedly are ready to deal the 35-year-old Robinson for some pitching help to go along with their Big Three of Dave McNally, Mike Cuellar and Jim Palmer.

The Braves might be ready to part with Cepeda, now with his third team, in exchange for some pitching help and the New York Mets have shown an interest in McCarver and possibly could deal one of their young pitchers for him.

Pacers Rolling

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Indiana Pacers are showing their firepower but coach Bob Leonard says it is much too early to be calling the Hoosier team a shoo-in for a repeat American Basketball Association title.

The Pacers, led by veteran Mel Daniels' 31 points, roared to their fourth victory of the season without defeat Monday night in the only professional basketball game scheduled in either major league.

The 123-97 triumph over the tenacious Floridians followed the pattern of the first three victories of the Pacers opening home stand.

A Look Back at Series

CHARLES J. TIANO

I suppose my biggest thrill at the 1970 World Series, beyond the crunching victory of the Baltimore Orioles, was shaking hands with Robert Moses (Lefty) Grove, the Hall of Fame immortal from nearby Lonaconing, Maryland.

Craggy faced, crusty and crotchety, as ever, the tall (6-3), white haired, 70-year old, ramrod straight Grove simply wasn't interview material, as he leaned back in an overstuffed chair in the lobby of the Lord Baltimore Hotel, an ante-bellum museum piece.

Mr. Grove, who won 300 games and lost only 140 during his fabulous American League career, always looked upon sportswriters as alien intruders from another planet. His "charisma" set the pattern for Ted Williams' boorish behavior in later years.

A STRIKING FIGURE of a man, you recalled in his fireballing days with the great Philadelphia Athletics and later with the Boston Red Sox. From 1928 through 1931, Mr. Grove won 113 games as against only 24 losses, with a 31-4 standard in 1931, a career total of 32 shutouts and 2,266 strikeouts.

He grudgingly answered the first question, then quickly shut off the interviewer.

Are you enjoying the series Mr. Grove?

"Yes I am," he said. "You know I'm an American Leaguer." The Big Red Machine was trailing the inspired Orioles, 3-1, at this stage of the series.

Did Mr. Grove think Johnny Bench and Company would pull off a miracle and win it all.

"I never answer questions like that," he replied in a tone that suggested the interviewer get lost. He did—into the muggy atmosphere of downtown Baltimore.

DESPITE ITS RESPLENDENT baseball team, Baltimore is a bush league town. The citizenry gave their hearts to Johnny Unitas and company a long time ago, while keeping the Orioles and NBA Bullets on starvation rations. There were tickets to be had all over the place and the fifth game was the payoff. Can you imagine Shea Stadium or Yankee Stadium 8,000 short of capacity on a day when it was almost certain the home club would wrap it up? Couldn't happen.

You'll never convince Fred Davi, the well-travelled baseball promoter, that the modern baseball doesn't have more jackrabbit to the ounce.

"I saw the old Yankee and Dodger powerhouses at their best," said Fred, "and they never hit the ball like Frank Robinson, Lee May, Bench, Powell. The ball just flies out of the park." We think Fred has a point.

NO PLAYER EVER dominated a World Series as completely as Brooks Robinson, as you already have heard a thousand times. But we'll go a step further. You have to be in the ballpark to appreciate the incredible third base wizardry of this personable young man.

Our seat in the auxiliary press box was directly in line with the third base foul line and we got a clear view of those rockets that Robinson collared off the bats of Bench, May and Perez.

They were tossing names around World Series headquarters like Harold (Pie) Traynor, of the Old Pirates; Billy Cox of the Brooklyn Dodgers, Jimmy Dykes, Clete Boyer (Yankee vintage) and George Kell—all superb third baseman. But in Robinson's class? Forget, it. If they were, they had to be in some other world.

DICK YOUNG, the hard hitting Daily News sports columnist and Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn were in the same ball park for five days but nobody saw them shaking hands.

The coolness between Kuhn and the working press is so obvious you could cut it with a knife. Mr. Kuhn, an austere, cheerless establishment figure, lacks the charisma of his precedessors — A.B. (Happy) Chandler and the gregarious Ford Frick and his rapport with the baseball working stiffs is virtually non-existent.

Most of the writers felt that the "4 for 4" trade between Detroit and Washington, involving Bad Boy Denny McLain, was something of a joke and that at least $250,000 changed hands under the table.

There were many writers who believed the tale making the rounds that the Orioles would unload Frank Robinson, the "young" 35-year-old for pitcher Andy Messersmith of the California Angels.

Jack Keeley, the Saugerties sports columnist, has built a fine relationship with Earl Weaver, the Baltimore manager, and is constantly in the company of Weaver's father, aging but sharp as ever.

You look at Johnny Bench and you think of other padded immortals like Bill Dickey, Mickey Cochrane and Gabby Hartnett. You see what Bench is doing at his tender age and you're convinced that barring injury Johnny will have to wind up as the greatest receiver of all time.

WE PICKED BALTIMORE, to be sure, but we don't think it could happen again. Give the Big Red Machine a sound pitching staff and you'll see the first authentic dynasty since the New York Yankees. The Orioles had to prove to themselves that the 1969 nightmare with the New York Mets was all a mistake and they did. Next time around, the results would be somewhat different.

YOU MEET SOME NOTABLES in the strangest places. Like the boys room, where standing in line besides me was none other than Sen. John McLellan of Alabama.

"You're Sen. McLellan, aren't you sir?," we asked. "That's right," he replied.

"How do you like the series?" "Just fine," he nodded.

"Where are you from young man (?)", he asked.

"Woodstock, N. Y.," we replied. He gave us a quick, quizzical look.

"Not that Woodstock," we assured him. "The original Woodstock, N. Y.

Floyd Would Bet on Quarry

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON

Floyd Patterson, the only man to win the heavyweight boxing championship of the world twice, was the guest speaker at the Kickoff Brunch for the 1970-71 sports season of the Jewish Community Council. The sports program of the JCC highlights basketball, football and softball.

Patterson was introduced to group of attending parents and boys and girls in the program by Ulster County Sheriff William B. Martin. In his introduction of Patterson, Martin said, "This is a man who has unselfishly given of himself to the youth of America, especially in this area of the country and we are proud that he is a member of our community." Patterson lives on his farm in New Paltz.

The two-time champ who has begun a comeback for the heavyweight title after a two-year layoff, didn't give a formal speech, but answered many questions posed by the parents and their eager-to-listen offspring.

The likeable champ's answers to many questions brought peals of laughter from the group, particularly one concerning the apparent mis-management of some fighters from a financial standpoint.

The question was: "We hear stories about fighters being mismanaged and ending up their careers with no money, taking Joe Louis as an example. Has this situation improved through the years?"

Patterson answered: "I turned pro 20 years ago. When I first came in in the early '50s, there were a lot of gangsters in the fight game. But, I got paid. Archie Moore, Ezzard Charles, Hurricane Jackson, I got paid for all of them. Then in the early '60s, lawyers and groups of lawyers, I call them legal crooks, came on the scene. As a result, I haven't been fully paid for my fights dating from 1961-62. I say, get rid of the lawyers and bring back the gangsters."

Patterson was asked which fights he considered to be his toughest. He answered, "All the ones I lost."

Floyd stated that he felt that Jerry Quarry has an excellent chance of defeating Cassius Clay in their 15-round go from Atlanta next Monday night.

"Quarry has the equipment to do it. Clay has been off for three years and this has to hurt him. It will be close, but if I had five bucks in my pocket and had to bet, I'd bet it on Quarry."

The fight will be broadcast in Kingston at the Municipal Auditorium via closed-circuit television.

Patterson won his first fight after a two-year layoff, knocking out Charlie "Devil" Green in the 10th round. The fight was last month in Madison Square Garden. The ex-champ has not fought since but said that he expects another fight in December and has gone into training for it.

"I received a call from Teddy Brennan, the match-maker at Madison Square Garden, just the other day," he said. "Brennan would like to match me against Clay, if he wins and can't get a fight with the present champ, Joe Frazier. If Clay doesn't win, I may fight Quarry or Frazier himself. Jimmy Ellis has also entered the picture. But, we must wait and see what happens next Monday," he concluded.

Patterson then sat down and signed many autographs for the audience, posing for pictures with fathers and sons alike.

The ex-champ told this reporter, as we walked to the parking lot, that he wanted just one more shot at the title and, if he got it, win, lose or draw, he would "Hang 'em up for good." "It will be a sad, sad day when that happens," he said.

The audience was also treated to game films of the Colts-Jets historic Super Bowl encounter of 1967, won by the Jets. In introducing the film, JCC Director Barry Axler said, "Weeb Ewbank, Jets coach, would probably rather be here watching the film, than coaching the Jets against Baltimore today." Barry was right, the Jets lost Sunday to the Colts, 29-22.

Ron Cole, Kingston High School Coach and sports director at the Center, assisted by Stan Kaplan, sports chairman, handed out trophies to members of the 1969 basketball championship squad. Those receiving trophies were: Steve Kantor, Eric Werbalowsky, Neil Kronick, Ron Seigal, Mark Satinsky, Bob Abramsky and Vic Ronder. An appreciation award was also presented to Marty Hammer.

Dr. Herman Lowe, president of the JCC, was on hand to greet the members and guests.

New Paltz State came up with a record setting effort by Nipsy Spadaro to buoy them to a 19-36 cross country win over Siena College yesterday.

Spadaro set a new varsity record in finishing first in 25:41, besting the old mark of 25:57 which had been held by Jim Longo.

Siena's Dave Kirkpatrick finished second, ahead of the NP duo, in 26:26.

Hawks Larry Levitz and Bob Cunningham came in fifth and sixth to insure the win, New Paltz's fourth against two defeats.

Albany State is in town on Wednesday for the next dual meet on the schedule.

SIDEBARS: New Paltz finished a disappointing seventh in the State Championship meet held Saturday at Geneseo. Brockport was the winning school . . . Top Hawk in the event was Spadaro who came in 32nd.

Dear Abby

Pregnant Gals Work?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: MARYLOO wrote to you saying pregnant women have no business working in an office. She says they come late to work due to morning sickness, have to leave early for a doctor's appointment, can't reach the high files and can't bend down to get into the low files. Also that sympathetic workers do their work for them.

I happen to agree with her. The employe with integrity (man or woman) will give his employer a full day's work for a full day's pay. You, Dear Abby, defended the pregnant working girl, saying, "I'm sure she'd rather be home, but she continues to work because she has to."

Sorry, Abby, but in this day and age, no girl has to get pregnant unless she wants to. And if she is so stupid or careless as to find herself in that condition before she is financially able to quit her job, I have no sympathy for her.

MARRIED, CHILDLESS AND SMART

DEAR ABBY: In your valiant effort to defend the pregnant working girl, you said, "There is only one reason why a pregnant girl would go to an office and that's because she has to, so how about a little compassion sister?"

Well, I must be the exception because I worked right up to the bitter end — not because I "had" to, but because my doctor said it would be "good" for me. He said pregnancy is not an "illness," it is a normal condition, and the woman who sits around and treats herself as an invalid is apt to have all sorts of aches and pains.

I worked well into my ninth month. I gained only 14 pounds and never felt better in my life. One morning while taking dictation I thought someone had suddenly kicked me in the kidney! That was my first labor pain. Four hours later I was the mother of a healthy six pound baby boy.

So, please tell pregnant women that "work" is the best medicine. I recommend it.

BARBARA IN MARYLAND

DEAR ABBY: There is another reason why a pregnant woman might stay on the job in an office when she would rather be home. The boss "needs" her.

My boss kept begging me to stay on "another week" and "another week" until I almost delivered my baby between the reception room and the switchboard. This is no lie. I had nearly 40 witnesses.

JULIA IN MISSOULA

DEAR ABBY: I have been in charge of office personnel for almost 30 years, and I have some news for MARYLOO.

In every office you will find the "complainers" (men as well as women) who always have a headache, an upset stomach, a backache or a hangover. But when it comes to pregnant women, I have found them to be every bit as efficient during pregnancy as before and after.

MALE PERSONNEL MGR.

DEAR ABBY: I am 38, single and have done office work for many years. I sincerely hope your readers won't think MARYLOO'S attitude toward pregnant women who work is typical. It's not.

I have worked with many pregnant women and not one of them has ever expected — or asked for any special concessions because of her condition. Also, it has been my observation that all their co-workers (including me) always offered to assist them in every way possible without being asked. LYNN, NYC

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES — This is now a fine day and evening to get a great deal accomplished. Straighten out financial and business affairs which you have postponed. It is also a good day to straighten out any emotional problems that may exist between persons and to get home and family affairs in good order.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Discuss with those dwelling under your roof how to establish greater harmony there. If you want to get new projects rolling you must first obtain more information. Stop wasting time on the trivial.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Keeping busy at shopping, keeping appointments for dental or medical purposes and in business matters is the best way to make progress now. Handle transportation matters also. Don't neglect your correspondence.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Work on monetary matters and see how to make more progress along vital line of your endeavor. Find out where you are making too many expenditure. Plan how to cut down on such.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take a more active role in your social life but be sure your companions are the congenial kind. State your personal aims. They will gladly help you to attain them, if you are tactful.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have to do a little investigating if you want to know where you really stand where others are concerned. If you are particularly devoted, a romance is ideal in the evening. Stop being so reticent.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have been so engrossed in business you have neglected your friends lately, so make up for this today. Attend parties that are worthwhile. Show that you are an excellent conversationalist.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you have something constructive to talk over with bigwigs, they will listen and help you. Show your finest talents. Some civic work you do now can prove to be very worthwhile for yourself as well as others.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make an effort to make new contacts that are worthwhile and forget easy chair for the time being. Obtain the data that that is necessary to your advancement. Plan the right day now for the trip you want to take.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Getting into those responsibilities of whatever nature is good, and you get them out of the way quickly, efficiently. Words of encouragement to mate bring fine results. Stop being so terribly indignant and independent.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Come to the right agreement with an associate but don't allow the emotionalism of ohters to draw the conversation on and on, and ruin things. Seek the pleasures you like later.

AQUARIUS (Jen. 21 to Feb. 19) If you try not to waste a moment of today's fine aspects, you will accomplish much that is important. Co-workers are anxious to hear your ideas, so expound them. Reach fine agreement.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) If you get together with persons you like, much happiness can be yours today. Take in the pleasures that really please. Don't neglect paying your bills on time.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have such a comprehension of what is a romantic nature that you could wisely direct education along lines of how to make this quality a benefit to mankind in social and humanitarian circles. The chart is especially good for the psychologist, the psychiatrist, the field of selling, teaching, etc. Much happiness at home is designated here. The academic course would be especially fine. Religion is easily absorbed here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

UNANSWERED: (Q.) My mother hasn't really explained the facts of life to me. She did give me a book about sex. But the book doesn't answer several questions I've wondered about for a long time.

My girl friends' mothers have sat down and talked with them about the details. How can I find out?—Still in the Dark in Norwalk, Conn.

(A.) Tell your mother the book did not answer all your questions and you need her help with some of them.

Many mothers who give their daughters books to read have a discussion afterward. I'm sure yours will be glad to do this and answer your questions.

STORYTELLER: (Q.) Last January I met a boy. I liked him but he did not seem interested in me. In April I found out I had to go to the hospital. I told him and he asked me for a date.

On the way to see me he got jumped and beaten up and had to go to the hospital himself. I blamed myself for that.

Before I went to the hospital we had one date. While I was in the hospital he came to see me. After that visit he told my girl friend he liked me but didn't want to get hooked.

I didn't hear from him again for about a month. Then we had another date. After it he told everybody that we were together from 8 p. m. to 6 a. m. and were drinking all that time. That's not so. I don't drink.

After the next date I had with him, he told my girl friend I was pregnant, but by another boy. That wasn't so either.

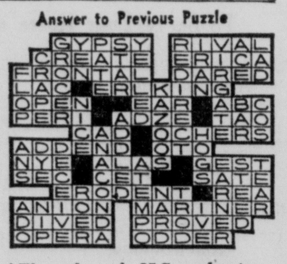

I don't talk to him now. Do you think I should give him another chance? Everyone tells me he likes me and doesn't mean the things he says.—Still Interested in Newton, N. J.

(A.) Your friend sounds like a nut to me. I think you can do better!

'The Other Man' Fine Fare

NEW YORK (AP) — There may have been some conflict in the nation's living rooms Monday night on the subject of entertainment.

On ABC, the Oakland Raiders were battling the Washington Redskins—a good, live men's pro football show. On NBC was "The Other Man,' a two-hour feature made for television which was a tale of illicit passion and revenge, right up any drama-loving woman's alley.

"The Other Man" was the season's first "World Premiere" program and was a cut above the average. It was fat with plot and good acting. It had some marvelous photography and was filmed largely on the scenic Monterey peninsula.

Joan Hackett played the slightly neurotic wife of a busy lawyer—Arthur Hill—and, between group therapy classes began an affair with a mysterious playboy named Johnny Brant.

At the time she decided to leave her husband for her lover, played by Roy Thinnes, Brant was murdered in his isolated home. The plot then swung abruptly away from grand passion and concentrated on suspense. Our heroine, suspecting her husband was the killer, left him and bought the dead man's home.

So there she was, alone in the big house, a terrible storm raging outside, the lights gone and all sorts of strange people prowling around—standard, old-fashioned thriller stuff.

It had a complicated trick ending, a bit of a let-down, and a number of important ends were left untied.

It had, however, pace and polish and no effort was needed to stay awake for the windup.

Evidence is accumulating that the public prefers old TV friends to new acquaintances. With few exceptions, new series on all three networks are not as popular as returning programs.

Opening lead—♥ 2

In JACOBY MODERN, the only forcing opening bid is two clubs. It is made with any hand that is a regular standard American two-bid in any suit or with certain very strong no-trump hands.

The first response is based entirely on high-card points in accordance with this table: two diamonds 0-3, two hearts 4-6, two spades 7-9, two no-trump 10-12 and three clubs 13 points or more.

The first rebid identifies the opening hand. Thus, South's two no-trump rebid showed a 23- or 24-point no-trump hand. North's three clubs was Stayman to ask South if he held a four-card major suit. South bid three hearts and North raised to four.

He was well aware that there might be a heart slam but he did not need to do any more than bid the heart game. The two-spade bid had shown 7-9 high-card points. The heart raise showed four hearts. It was up to South to go.

South thought about going on. Then he realized that his partner knew all about his hand and had not invited a slam. Hence, it was most unlikely that North would hold the nine-point maximum for his two-spade response. South settled for game.

When South saw the dummy, he realized there was a fair play for the slam but he needed the diamond finesse and good breaks in the other suits.

Canada Buries Martyr

MONTREAL (UPI)—Canada today buries its martyr in the cause of Canadian unity, Pierre LaPorte, while the search intensified for his killers and the kidnapers of British diplomat James L. Cross.

Canadian political figures including Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau and opposition leaders from Ottawa, were joining LaPorte's family in paying final respects to the Quebec labor minister murdered Saturday, one week after his abduction by the Quebec Liberation Front (FLQ).

At the request of LaPorte's wife, Francoise, the simple funeral at 4 p.m. EDT at Notre Dame cathedral in Montreal was to be private. Extraordinary security, including the 4,000 federal troops mobilized Thursday by Trudeau, were poised for possible FLQ trouble.

Meanwhile, 9,000 police from throughout Quebec pressed their search for three men wanted as suspects in the kidnapings of Cross and LaPorte. Since Trudeau Friday decreed emergency war powers broadening police powers and suspending some Canadian civil rights, authorities have seized without charges 341 suspected FLQ leaders and sympathizers in 1,627 raids throughout Quebec.

They have failed to find the kidnapers or Cross, who was abducted from his suburban Montreal home Oct. 5 by armed members of the FLQ. Apparently he still is alive, for he sent a communique to police Sunday begging them to call off their search and accede to FLQ demands.

The Canadian government waited for word from the FLQ to its standing offer for safe passage to Cuba for the kidnapers. If the abductors agree, they would bring Cross to the Concordia Bridge over the St. Lawrence River at the site of Expo '67, Montreal's World's Fairgrounds.

There the kidnapers would turn Cross over to the Cuban Consul, hop into a waiting helicopter for the short ride to Montreal International Airport, then aboard a one-way flight to Havana. Cross would be released when the kidnapers arrived in Cuba.

Rocky's Comment — Act of Expediency

NEW YORK (UPI)—Gov. Nelson A.Rockefeller said Monday the endorsement of Arthur Goldberg for governor by Mayor John V. Lindsay was an act of "expediency" designed to further Lindsay's political ambitions.

Rockefeller was asked whether Lindsay's statement was the start of a campaign to obtain the Democratic presidential nomination in the belief that he could not get the GOP nomination because of his liberalism. With a wry smile, the governor answered, "What do you think?"

"Lindsay was acting out of expediency to fulfill the political ambitions of both men," said Rockefeller. "There is no basic evidence of either commitment to principle or conviction in this political marriage of convenience."

On Sunday the governor had urged Lindsay to "sit this one out;" advice which Lindsay disregarded and Goldberg characterized as "extremely inappropriate".

The endorsement by Lindsay of Goldberg, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations and one time associate justice of the Supreme Court, added still another odd-shaped piece to the crazy-quilt pattern of New York State politics.

Lindsay, who says "I am a Republican and intend to remain a Republican," was denied the GOP mayoral nomination last year. He won on the Liberal line with the blessings of a number of high ranking Democrats including Goldberg.

He has endorsed some Republicans such as Sen. Charles Goodell and Attorney General Louis Lefkowitz but made it clear in his statement Monday he thought the Democrats were the best chance to end the city's "annual role as a beggar for survival in Albany."

Martha Would Expel Lindsay

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Mrs. Martha Mitchell says New York Mayor John V. Lindsay is a "political opportunist" who should be expelled from the Republican Party. But she doubts the Democrats would want him either.

The outspoken wife of Attorney General John N. Mitchell called a UPI reporter from her Washington apartment Monday night to complain about Republican Lindsay's endorsement of New York Democratic gubernatorial candidate Arthur Goldberg.

Mrs. Mitchell called from the balcony of her apartment to avoid being overheard by her husband. "Can't you hear the cars," she asked the reporter. On a previous call, she said she was calling from her second floor bathroom "So John won't hear me."

"I have an extension phone that goes all over the house," she said Monday night. "I have to have someplace for my soapbox so I won't be heard."

"I just got back from Florida and I'm furious with LindsLey," she said, using the derogatory slur of Lindsay's name used by the late Mike Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union. Quill never referred to the mayor as anything but "Lindsley."

"He (Lindsay) just wants to do anything he can for himself," she said. "He's a political opportunist. It will help Rockefeller.

"Get 'Lindsley' out of the Republican party. To heck with him. We don't need him and neither do the Democrats."

Gromyko, President To Meet Thursday

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Two meetings between Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko have concluded with a date for Gromyko to see President Nixon in Washington Thursday morning.

Rogers' dinner meeting with Gromyko Monday night was described as more cordial than their first session last Friday. And afterward Rogers announced that Nixon had granted Gromyko's request for a meeting, a request made some days ago.

Nixon did not receive Gromyko at the White House when the Russian came to the United States for the U.N. General Assembly last year. Rogers said the Soviet representative is the only one of the many foreign ministers now attending the U.N. fall session to be granted a special White House appointment because he represents the other superpower.

But the secretary said he attached "no specific importance" to the meeting. He said Gromyko had not specified any particular subjects he planned to discuss or indicated whether he was bringing Nixon a message from the Kremlin.

"There's no urgency," Rogers said. "I think he (Gromyko) just thinks the meeting will be useful. We've had two meetings which were useful."

"I think the conversation was useful," Gromyko told newsmen after the dinner at Rogers' hotel suite. The meeting lasted nearly three hours.

The Middle East—an item likely to come up when Gromyko visits the White House—and Berlin were the main topics discussed.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church, West Camp, N. Y.

Several hundred years of history are symbolized in St. Paul's Lutheran Church of West Camp. Appropriately, the above art work was executed by a parishioner, Julius Gentalen who was a refugee from Europe himself.

Two hundred and sixty years ago the Rev. Joshua Kochertal led refugees from the Palatinate region of Europe to establish this congregation. They had survived ruthless persecution and a dangerous voyage across the Atlantic. When in the autumn of 1710 they sailed up the Hudson arriving at West and East Camp, the mountain sides were tinged with crimson, purple, and gold, which to them it is said, "Seemed like a remnant of Paradise."

These courageous people had a church and a school, (the first one to be founded in the Saugerties area), built within three months of their arrival. We offer our congratutions to Rev. Alvin Messersmith and the congregation on this happy anniversary, and are pleased that we had a part in preserving the present church.

Kingston Hospital Auxiliary

New 'Heart' Laboratory: Gift

In one of the most dramatic and meaningful moves in its 75 years of service, the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary has broadened its horizon beyond the walls of the hospital which it serves and dedicated to the people of the community a cardiac catheterization and angiocardiography laboratory at the cost of $85,000.

In retrospect, much of the auxiliary's growth has been due to the community at large, which has provided the ways and means with which to carry on its fund raising projects.

The auxiliary is proud, that through its energies and activities it has been able to bring the only cardiac catheterization and angiocardiography laboratory to the Mid-Hudson Valley.

Cardiac catheterization is a diagnostic study utilized in the evaluation of nearly all types of heart disease. It consists of passing a catheter to the heart by way of an artery or vein, or both. This enables the study of heart function by analysis of blood samples and pressure recordings from various chambers of the heart. It also permits performance of selective angiocardiography, which is the injection, through the tube, of a contrast material into any heart chamber. The contrast material is opaque to x-ray and thus allows the visualization of the inside of the various heart chambers or blood vessels; this can be recorded on regular x-ray film or on movie film (cineangiocardigraphy).

History

Cardiac catheterization was first performed by a Dr. Forssman, on himself, in 1929. The procedure was not utilized for clinical purposes, however, until about 1940 when Dr. Cournand began his investigations at Bellevue Hospital, New York City. (Dr. Cournand later won the Nobel Prize for this work). Angiocardiography had been used during the 1940's also, but it was not until the development of specialized x-ray equipment (image intensifiers) in the 1950's that selective cineangiography became feasible.

These procedures provide knowledge about the heart in several ways. For example, the position of the catheter may identify the size of the heart chambers, or may locate abnormal communications between chambers. Recordings of pressures from various heart chambers help to identify the presence of abnormal valves. Analysis of the oxygen content of blood samples may locate an abnormal communication between heart chambers. Various calculations, utilizing the above data, allow for the determination of cardiac output, and other aspects of heart function. Finally by selective angiocardiography, any anatomic abnormality may be visualized.

Technique

These procedures are performed in especially designed rooms and with especially designed equipment. The basic equipment is the image intensifier, which is an electronic device allowing 3000 to 5000 times the intensification of the light of the x-ray beam, with less radiation hazard to the patient. This permits better visualization of the heart and blood vessels, and provides enough light to take actual movie pictures of these structures. The procudures are done with constant monitoring of the position of the tube by the x-ray, and by constant monitoring of the heart beat by an EKG monitor. In addition, pressure recordings may be recorded through the catheter when disired, thus helping to localize the position of the tube. The procedures are uncomfortable, but not painful, to the patient, requiring from 2-3 hours for completion. The procedures are usually done with the patient awake, using local anesthesia and mild sedation.

Indications

IT'S A FIRST—The first shipment for the only cardiac catheterization and angiocardiography laboratory in the Mid-Hudson Valley is received by members of the Kingston Hospital Auxiliary. This is the biggest undertaking the Auxiliary has worked on in 75 years. The laboratory will be set up at a cost of $85,000. This money will be raised through the efforts of the Auxiliary. On hand for the first shipment of equipment were (l-r) Mrs. Christus Larios, second vice president; Mrs. Daniel Brown, diversional therapy volunteer; Mrs. Harlow DeForest, sales cart chairman; Mrs. Gerald McCabe, first vice president; and Mrs. George Rifenbary, Auxiliary president. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

There are several basic indications for the performance of cardiac catheterization and angiocardiography. Whenever any cardiac diagnosis is in question, these procedures may be utilized. This may be in infants and children with congenital heart disease or in adults with various types of acquired heart disease. At times the procedures are necessary to help uncover associated problems, even though the main diagnosis is obvious by less sophisticated tests. Patients who are being considered for heart surgery usually have these tests performed in order to be absolutely certain about the diagnosis and to allow the physcian to be better able to judge the risk involved. Many times these procedures are done to evaluate cardiac function and its response to certain medical or surgical treatment.

The procedures of cardiac catheterization and angiocardiography are time-consuming and require expensive equipment. In addition, they require especially trained personnel. Nevertheless they are necessary procedures and have a definite place in the diagnostic evaluation of the cardiac patient.

Heads New Women's Club Here

MRS. WILLIAM E. KOSSIAN

It has been announced that Mrs. William E. Kossian of Stone Ridge will serve as chairman of the newly organized Ulster County Christian Women's Club. She was appointed to this position by the national representatives last week.

The Club gave its first fashion show this afternoon at Williams Lake Hotel.

The Ulster County group is one of more than 750 clubs in the United States and Canada affiliated with Christian Women's Clubs of America, an International organization with headquarters in Kansas City, Mo.

The club is an inter-church, non-sectarian organization with no dues or membership and was established 31 years ago, although the Ulster County group was recently formed in September of this year. There are more than 30 groups in New York State.

Each club meets monthly for luncheon meetings and is made up of homemakers in the local area. Special features are a part of the program, designed to inform ladies of latest fashions and other items of interest. The best in music is provided and outstanding speakers present an inspirational message challenging women to seek the better things in life.

The international organization, soon after it was established, was challenged to take on a project. Ever since the groups were first formed, trained Christian leaders have been sent into rural areas where no other churches are available to tell people about God's love.

The names of those local ladies appointed to serve on the executive and supporting committees will be announced.

Benedictine: At the Million Mark!

"Involvment" — a much heralded means of contributing one's self to the betterment of society is nothing new to many women of the Ulster County Community — women who span not one but several generations.

And many of those who want to and do get involved, naturally enough seem to be drawn to any and all causes which benefit a hospital, whether pushing a cart or building a heliport.

"You get a satisfaction in doing anything that you know is benefiting those confined to the hospital, says Mrs. Henry J. Bruck, who is currently coordinating the Women's Division of the Benedictine Hospital's "Million Dollar Millennium", an upcoming celebration of the successful raising of more than $1 million for the new hospital wing.

Mrs. Bruck, who first began her work for the hospital as president of its Auxiliary a number of years ago, said that she derives her greatest satisfaction from volunteering because it is the "easiest" from the standpoint of people "wanting" to help her help a hospital.

That the job is truly easy is questionable however, for just this week, she and many others have been putting in daily dozens of hours compiling lists and sending out the more than a thousand invitations to the Millennium which will be held Sunday, Nov. 15 at the Granit Hotel in Kerhonskon.

The old addage, is you want something done, give the job to a busy woman holds true for Mrs. Bruck who in addition to her many hours of volunteer work, has also been an accountant for the Chevrolet Motor Company for many years.

It holds true too for Mrs. Gale Brownlee, aircraft and helicopter pilot who has been the leading light in the current building of a heliport for Benedictine Hospital.

She has been able to raise more than $3,000 for the building of the pad and has enlisted the aid and the donations of material, manpower and equipment from a score of individuals and businessmen in the greater Kingston Community.

Mrs. Betty Valejo, head of the woman volunteers at Benedictine Hospital knows all about what motivates women from teenagers to senior citizens. From the youngest candystripper, who incidentally many times returns to hospital volunteer work as a married woman to the many gals who man the gift shop, push the magazine carts do secretarial and clerical work or any other job that needs to be done, all seem to derive satisfaction from knowing their help helps others.

No job, whether painting a poster, manning the front desk as a receptionist, or heading up a telephone committee is without volunteers.

Mrs. Juanita Mann, who is in the hospital's personnel department, is a swinger with a paint brush or any other creative medium. Right now she is turning out a batch of smart-looking campaign-type buttons to be used to promote the Millenium. She is also in charge of the sophisticated-looking black and gold poster production designed by Mrs. Karen Beberwyck of Woodstock. Each Christmas, her holiday decorations, which festoon the hospital, are real eye catchers.

Volunteering takes other forms too. A number of gals working to promote the Millennium are planning and will give cocktail parties in anticipation of the huge affair which will feature top entertainment and an award of a $1,500 trip for two to one of the islands or perhaps even a European or ski vacation, the choice of the recipient.

Volunteering takes other forms too. Mrs. Elaine Siller serves as a member of Benectine Hospital's Advisory Board. Jane Walters served as a volunteer between school semesters last summer, Mrs. Philip J. Battaglia's smiling countenance greets many visitors to Benedictine Hospital.

All are involved, all are doing their thing, all are doing their thing for others — that's involvement.

AN ISLAND DREAM — Thoughts of an island vacation for two, wing through the minds of Benedictine Hospital volunteers who are planning and boosting the Million Dollar Millennium to be held Sunday, Nov. 15 at the Granit Hotel. One big feature of the dinner-dance will be the awarding of a $1,500 trip for two to the island of "your choice." Arrangements for the tour are through Greenwald and Kingston Travel Agencies in Kingston. Left is Mrs. John Feltham, Mrs. William Cranston, Mrs. Anthony Vicevich and Mrs. Henry J. Bruck. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Skirts Down—Pants Up

With skirts going down, the only way for pants to go is up as in the swinging gauchos. Monet suggests topping off a gaucho suit with a long chain rope, the glint of gold restated on a sleek abstract pin on the lapel and a gleaming expansion bracelet on the wrist.

Furs for Men

Some of the outstanding furs for men in Ben Kahn's couture collection included a pair of puma knickerbockers, an elephant hide coat, and two midi lengths nutria coats, one with reacoon collar for sport and the other with a sea otter collar for more formal wear.

Woman's Club of Saugerties

In 1966 several area women shared a common desire: to establish a Club large enough in scope to appeal to all the women in the community. The result was the organization of the Woman's Club of Saugerties. Since that time the Woman's Club has enjoyed a wide variety of activities and notable speakers at monthly meetings.

The Woman's Club will hold its next general meeting on Thursday, October 22, at 8 p.m. at the Dutch Arms Chapel. Mr. Alexander Saunders, Jr. will address the group on "Pollution and the Individual." Accompanying Mr. Saunders will be Lee and Richard Wilkie, Albany husband and wife folk singers. Their presentation is under the sponsorship of the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc., which also sponsors the sloop "Clearwater," well-known Hudson River traveler with an environmental message.

Mr. Saunders is currently a board member and a former president of the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc. The Wilkies will present Richard's original Hudson River songs, which have been sung on the trips of the "Clearwater" to bring attention to the sad condition of the Hudson River Valley.

Richard Wilkie is a speech professor at State University of New York at Albany. The Wilkies, with their three children, Just returned from a year spent sailing their twenty foot sailboat down the Atlantic Coast and through the Caribbean. The couple has made many sppearances, including the Beers Family Folk Festival, Albany's International Center, the Kenwood Folk Festival, and the Albany Sloop Show, to mention only a few. They are also currently offering a course in Albany on "American Folk Music."

Arrangements for the program have been made by Public Affairs Chairman Mrs. Brian Sawchuk. Mrs. Sawchuk has extended invitations to all interested area groups to attend this meeting. The message of the Hudson River Sloop Restoration, Inc. is "the need to clean up the environment and some of the ways to do it."

The Woman's Club of Saugerties is composed of Departments including Art, Home, Education, International Affairs, Public Affairs and Legislature.

HOME FOR THE AGED—Residents of the Home for the Aged are preparing for their annual Donation Day and Tea. It will be held on Thursday, October 29. Pictured setting up the Christmas booth are Miss Florence Risely and Mrs. Rada Smith. This is the only fund raising event given during the year by the Home's Board of Managers. Proceeds are for the benefit of the residents and are used in the Good Cheer Fund which provides for such things as field trips and small luxuries. (Hoderath photo)

About Our Guest Singer...

We are indebted to the Affiliate Artist Program at West Point Academy for our program this afternoon. Joan Patenaude, young Canadian lyric soprano, consented to sing for the Woman's Department Third Annual Tea and Publicity Workshop early last month. Her appearance here today is made possible also through a grant from the Sears-Roebuck Foundation which supports the Affiliate Artist Program at the Academy along with Readers Digest.

With Miss Patenaude is her accompanist, Mrs. Sharon Rhoten and leading clarinetist and violinist from the West Point Academy Band.

Miss Patenaude is from Canada. She received her early musical and vocal training in Montreal, her studies sponsored by the Canadian and the Government of Quebec. As one of the Metropolitan Opera auditions winners, she continued her studies in New York under the Kathryn Turney Long Scholarship Funds and under a grant from the Rockefeller Foundation.

Miss Patenaude made her debut with the New York City opera. She has countless operatic roles to her credit as well as performances with leading symphony orchestras throughout the United States and Canada.

What makes Miss Patenaude so different? She is a singing actress. She knows how to put a character over with honesty and point, one critic said about her She can sing opera, musical comedy and show tunes, folk songs and popular and contemporary music.

Miss Patenaude, as the Affiliate Artist is under the auspices of the Cadet Fine Arts Forum, U.S. Military Academy. FAF is administered by the Dept. of English, LTC. Robert Merrick, Officer in Charge.

The Cadet Fine Arts Forum presents a varied and interesting schedule. On October 3 Anthony Newley's smash Broadway Musical, STOP THE WORLD — I WANT TO GET OFF was given. On November 7 at 8 p.m., a production of Hamlet, Prince of Denmark is slated while the Trinidad Tripoli Steel Band will perform at the Academy on November 14. Jose Greco and his flamenco Dancers will be seen on January 17, 1971.

All performances are open to the public.

Named President Of Chiropractic Assn. Auxiliary

An Ulster County resident has been named president of the Women's Auxiliary to the New York State Chiropractic Association, Inc. She is Mrs. Richard H. Craft of Wawarsing, wife of Dr. Richard H. Craft.

Dr. and Mrs. Craft have a son Mark, 14 and a daughter Cindy, 13. All interested in Music, they are active in the Wawarsing Gospel Church where Mrs. Craft teaches Sunday School.

Mrs. Craft, in addjtion to home duties, civic projects, church and the Auxiliary, finds time for politics and oil painting. She has some advice for all clubwomen:

"Don't let club work interfere with family and take each job as it comes. Don't worry about next week's luncheon at today's club meeting. Relax by hopping on a bike and take a ride and inhale the air while it's still breathable."

About the Auxiliary — it is made up of chiropractor's wives from all parts of the state. About its work, Mrs. Craft says:

"We plan to be helpful on the legislative front. We will concern ourselves with such topics as Compensation Insurance Coverage, a better X-Ray Bill that will be beneficial to the doctor and patient and spearhead some activity through the New York State Board of Regents.

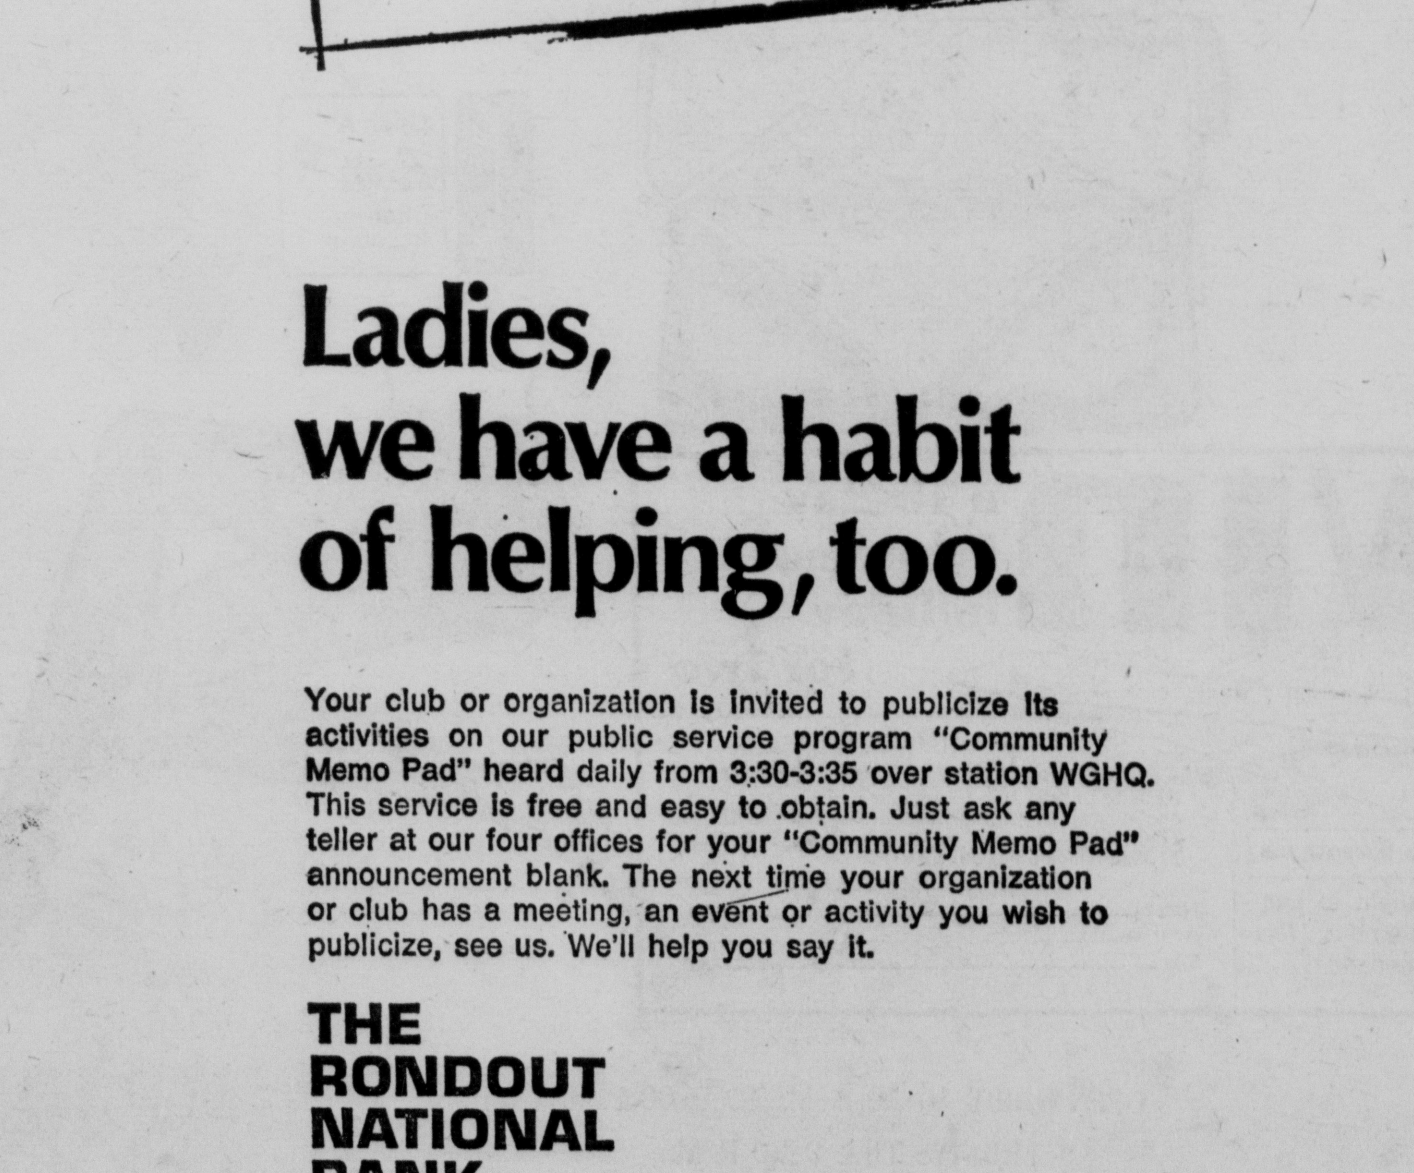

Since 1957 the Auxiliary has made 32 awards of $500 each to men and women stydying chiropractic. The Auxiliary's award presentations are the finest in the country.

Since correct posture is a by-word of chiropractic, the Auxiliary will promote it this year with pop buttons.

It is also noted that Auxiliary members are equally active in the Legislative Forum in Albany and the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Diversified Program For YW Homemakers

Young Women Diversified is a club at the YWCA for young married women who have many interests. YWD was formerly the Young Homemakers' Club set up by a group of young women who wanted a club devoted solely to the young mother and the problems and issues which concerned her. The Young Homemakers' programs, speakers and films were usually centered around the home, children and programs of the young marrieds. In this, the club's fourth year, a majority of members felt the name of the club should be changed to reflect the diversified programming, hence Young Women Diversified.

No longer is the club's main emphasis on the home and on the child; the woman as an individual has emerged as the YWD's main reason for existing.

The present format permits a young women to attend the activities weekly or monthly. Programs are planned for every Tuesday; if a member is interested in the activity she attends — otherwise she waits for a program that concerns her. The YWD has a group that bowls every Thursday morning from 9-11:30 at Sangi's Bowlero in addition to the weekly Tuesday program.

Young Women Diversified, by arranging for babysitting at a nominal fee at the YWCA, at the time its programs are scheduled, provides the young mother with a sitter without the inconvenience of contacting one on her own.

Some of the programs for the year include a tour of Woodstock shops, bowling, library trip, membership coffee hour, Halloween party, workshop in Christmas docorations, shopping trip to New York City and a ski night.

Officers are Mrs. Sharron Rastetter, president; Mrs. Donna Angevine, program chairman; Mrs. Carol Cournoyer, membership chairman; Mrs. Arlene Gengler, secretary-treasurer and Mrs. Barbara Amiro, publicity chairman.

All young married women who have an interest in themselves as individuals are invited to attend Young Women Diversified. For further information call the YWCA, a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

YOUNG WOMEN DIVERSIFIED held its membership tea recently at the YWCA in Kingston. Among those attending were (l-r) Sharron Rastetter, president; Dorothy Dvorocsik, Joan Mayer and Mary Barthel. YWD is a YWCA club for young married women. Programs are planned for every Tuesday. YWD provides babysitting services also at the YW during the time its programs are being held. LaLeche New to Area

In Spain they have a word for it — "La Leche." It means "the milk" and here in America it also means a group of women who gather once a month to learn about the art of breastfeeding.

The first meeting of Kingston's new group was held on September 29 at the home of the Group Leader Pan Usticke, 43 Washington Avenue.

The newly organized LaLeche League of Kingston attracted not only 26 mothers, prospective mothers and nine nursing babies but a prospective grandmother - as well!

La Leche was started 12 years ago in a Chicago suburb when a few nursing mothers were asked to give advice on breastfeeding to other women.

Though emphasis is still on the "mother - to - mother" relationship, this small gathering of interested women resulted in an international organization with more than 1,000 groups.

In additionan to Kingston's LaLeche League, mothers in the Mid-Hudson Valley area can avail themselves of these instruction sessions in Poughkeepsie and Wappingers Falls also.

La Leche League of Kingston is affiliated with La Leche League International and discussion meetings are based on material found in the manual, "The Womanly Art of Breastfeeding," as well as the bi-monthly La Leche News. These and other publications on breastfeeding and early childhood are distributed to members. They are available free of charge from any leader.

The La Leche League also maintains a large lending library dealing with breastfeeding, childbirth, children and family and nutrition. The group's goal and motto is "Good Mothering Through Breastfeeding" and the aim is to give information, support and encouragement to nursing mothers or to anyone interested in breastfeeding.

La Leche holds a series of four discussion meetings, one a month. The Kingston meetings are the last Tuesday of each month with the next session slated for October 27. Topics covered include: Advantages of Breastfeeding; Art of Breastfeeding and Overcoming Difficulties; The Baby Arrives: The Family and the Breastfed Baby; and Nutrition and Weaning.

The ideal time for a woman to attend the series is during her pregnancy.

Another service La Leche offers is phone counseling. If a mother is having any problems with breastfeeding and wishes to discuss them with an informed mother who is sensitive to the experiences associated with nursing, she may call a leader for support and non-medical advice.

In order to become a La Leche League leader, a mother must be thoroughly familiar with the League's philosophy and demonstrate this by answering an extensive questionnaire. She must have also successfully nursed a baby.

There is ample support from doctors with members also joining as a result of newspaper articles on the subject.

DISCUSSION MEETING of La Leche League members is attended by (l-r) Mrs. Pan Usticke and Mrs. Joanne Haber. There are more than 1,000 La Leche Leagues throughout the world. Local groups have been organized in Poughkeepsie and Wappingers Falls as well as Kingston. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Legion Auxiliary Activities Report

Back in 1927 some women gathered at the home of a Legion Auxiliary member and elected Mrs. Edna O'Brien president of its Ulster County Committee. She held that office for one year overseeing the work of the Auxiliary in assisting the Legion in rehabilitation and child welfare throughout the county.

Auxiliary activities were rewarded when Mrs. Stanley Matthews was elected Department President and Miss Ida N. Ashby served as Department Secretary, both State posts.

The American Legion Auxiliary works on various projects for the betterment of its communities. In times of disaster, the Auxiliary member will be seen assisting wherever possible. Americanism is important to the membership and all strive, through their Units, to keep patriotism a part of every child's education in the schools and at home.

Ulster County has 13 Legion Units. These are located in Saugerties, Ellenville, Marlboro, Kingston, New Paltz, Highland, Phoenicia, Woodstock, Wallkill, Tillson, Port Ewen, Stone Ridge and Olive Bridge.

Twenty-five projects keeps Auxilians busy throughout the year. The Child Welfare project assures and protects children of veterans from World War I, II and the Korean Conflict. It also improves conditions of all children regardless of race, color or creed and improves the integrity of the family home. Other projects are Civil Defense, Community Service, Education and Scholarship, Empire Girls State, Legislative Affairs, Membership, music, National Security, Foreign Relations, Poppy Project, Rehabilitation and the Equipment Program.

Through these committee projects, the Auxiliary member improves the life of a community, awards educational scholarships, fosters interest in good government, music, legislation, and participates actively in assisting other countries through CARE and the Peace Corps.

The Legion Auxiliary member supports the sale of U.S. Bonds in her own prospective Unit, sells Poppies to assist disabled veterans and their families and maintains a Christmas Gift Shop at the VA Hospitals.

An Auxiliary member will be seen also making afghans and lap robes for veterans or maintaining a community loan closet complete with hospital beds, walkers, crutches and wheel chairs for those who need them.

Ulster County has 787 American Legion Auxiliary members. Their work encompasses many areas and they believe in their goals and objectives. As one member told the Freeman:

"We are not here to drift,
We have hard loads to lift.
Shun not the struggle
Face it, Tis God's Gift."

Beta Sigma Phi Is Outlined; Three Chapters

Since its inception in 1931, Beta Sigma Phi has become an international organization. It was created for young women in search of cultural and social activity.

Seven members started the organization in Abilene, Kan., and today the chapters include 200,000 active members in more than 9,000 chapters throughout the United States and 22 other countries.

An informal tea at the Governor Clinton Hotel in November 1945 launched the Gamma Chi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. Miss Cloe Foster, field executive from international headquarters, appointed Mrs. John Connors as president at that time. Serving with Mrs. Connors were Mrs. Paul Hinkley, vice president; Miss Gladys Wiedemann, recording secretary; Miss Florence Carlson, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Ralph Harper, treasurer.

Xi Alpha Omega's Examplar Chapter was organized in 1958. All members were those who had been active for four or more years. Mrs. Fran Martino officiated at the installations and the group's first president was Mary Kay Donnelly.

By 1964, Gamma Chi had grown to 20 members and since this was beyond the capacity for individual's homes, International granted another chapter in Hurley — Eta Eta. Marion Graham served as first president.

The three chapters get together for certain functions throughout the years and these are coordinated by Mrs. John Clark, chairman of the coordinating committee.

Some of these activities for 1971 will include a box supper on January 12 and a Founder's Day anniversary dinner in April.

Gamma Chi

Mrs. John Clark of Port Ewen is president of Gamma Chi Chapter. Announced activities for the group will include a Wild West Night on October 24 in St. Leo's Hall in Port Ewen, a fashion show and luncheon in the spring, and the sale of Beta Sigma Phi cookbooks containing recipes submitted by members through the world. The cookbook covers such topics as Meat Casseroles, Desserts and Salads. The books will be sold throughout the year.

Socials for Gamma Chi will include a Ritual of Jewels dinner in November, Christmas dinner and a family snow party in January. In February, a Chapter queen will be selected at the Valentine dance and a

Legal Secretaries Set Meeting

PLANNING STATE CONFERENCE—Members of the planning committee for the upcoming Board of Governors meeting, New York State Secretaries Association, complete details for the Saturday, Jan. 30 event. It will be held at the Granit Hotel and members from all parts of New York State will be attending as delegates. Ulster County Legal Secretaries Association will host the conference. Representing the local group on the committee are (l-r) Karen Bitonte, governor and general chairman; Bette Maxson, program chairman; Very Elliott, vice president; and Carmela Cruisce, president. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

The Ulster County Legal Secretaries Association, an affiliate of the New York State Association of Legal Secretaries and the National organization, was launched in Kingston on August 19 in 1967. This association has doubled its membership in the three years it has been in existence.

One of the principal objectives of this Association is to unite all persons working in the legal field to the end that ideas may be exchanged and, through this exchange, knowledge may be increased. An intensive 10 week educational program is sponsored each year and is open to all secretaries working the legal field.

Officers of the local Association are Carmela Cruisce, president; Vera Elliott, vice president; Uldine Rauner, secretary; Margaret Speer, treasurer; Ruth Wood, corresponding secretary; Maria Fabiano, NALS Representative; and Karen Bitonte, Governor.

The Association is now making plans to host the Board of Governors' meeting for New York State Association. It will be held at the Granit Hotel in Accord on Saturday, Jan. 30, 1971. Jack Barry, vice president of the State of New York National Bank, will present a program on "Women's Finance Program." A luncheon will be served.

Anyone employed as a legal secretary or secretary in a legal department in Ulster County and who is interested in attending one of the local Association's dinner-meetings, is invited to contact Vera Elliott, vice president, in Kingston, for detailed information. Regular dinner-meetings are held every third Wednesday at 7 p.m.

BRIDGE TO THE PAST—Daughters of the American Revolution, Wiltwyck Chapter, maintain one of Kingston's interesting historic dwellings. It is the DAR Chapter House on Green and Crown Streets. Mrs. George F. Dingee, at left, DAR regent, and Mrs. Adam H. Porter, DAR public relations chairman, lend authenticity to the Chapter House Kitchen with their colonial costumes. In the large two oven fireplaces are featured primitive cooking tools suspended on the crane. Among them is a scale, round iron ball on the hearth and a coffee-roaster which dates back to 1849. The hearth is extended with bluestone to protect the wide floorboards. One oven is called a beehive and projects to the outside wall of the house. The rear kitchen door is a "Christian Door." The upper part forms a cross and the lower an open Bible. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

B'nai B'rith Women

B'nai B'rith is the largest and oldest Jewish service organization in the world. The B'nai B'rith Women of the world number approximately 150,000 with chapters in twenty-four countries of the globe.

The local Chapter of B'nai B'rith Women, designated as Zephaniah Chapter No. 399, was founded twenty-seven years ago. The membership roster of the organization now incudes over two-hundred and fifty members. The local group engages in educational, philanthropic, civic, and religious programs of community, national, and international scope. B'nai B'rith hopes to enrich the lives of its members by offering opportunities for edcuation in both secular and religious matters and by encouraging active involvement in current issues.

One of the more active B'nai B'rith agencies on both the local and nationai scene is the Anti-Defamation League which is dedicated to building a better democracy by working for equality of opportunity for all groups and which hopes to better intergroup dynamics. In addition to its support of its national Agency, the local Chapter has engaged upon its own drive to better inter-group relationships through a program called Dolls for Democracy, a presentation performed by B'nai B'rith Women for schools and youth groups. This program vividly shows the contributions of all Americans to this great society.

The Citizens, Veterans and Community Affairs program of the organization accomplishes such important services as visits and good cheer for the Veterans at the Castle Point Hospital and providing gifts and birthday cakes for patients at the Ulster County Infirmary. B'nai B'rith Women also help provide transportation for patients at both the Tumor Clinic and the Cerebal Palsy Clinic. The organization has also co-operated with the Red Cross, Cerebal Palsy Telethon, the Tuberculosis Society, and various other community service groups.

A concern for youth, the future leaders of tomorrow, actively involves B'nai B'rith Women in the sponsorship of B'nai B'rith Women in the sponsorship of B'nai B'rith Girls, an organization for Jewish teeenage girls. The Kingston Chapter was also instrumental in the foundation of a Hillel Chapter at the State University at New Paltz. Our very active Vocational Service committee has co-operated with the local schools in staging Career Days at both the high school and junior high school level. The group also assists with story hour at the Kingston Children's library.

Although B'nai B'rith is primarily a service organization, each local Chapter, including Zephaniah, does engage in fund-raising activity. The monies derived from such projects as the B'nai B'rith Calendar and Directory support such important institutions as Hillel Foundations in 260 colleges and the B'Nai B'rith Four Freedoms Library in Washington, D.C. Other B'nai B'rith philanthropies supported by the local Chapter include The B'nai B'rith Women's Children's Home in Israel, the National Jewish Hospital in Denver, the B'nai B'rith Center at the Mayo Clinic, the Bellefaire Home for emotionally troubled children in Cleveland, and the Leo. N. Levi Hospital in Hot Springs, Arkansas, which is a free non-sectarian institution devoted exclusively to the treatment of arthritic and reheumatoid diseases.

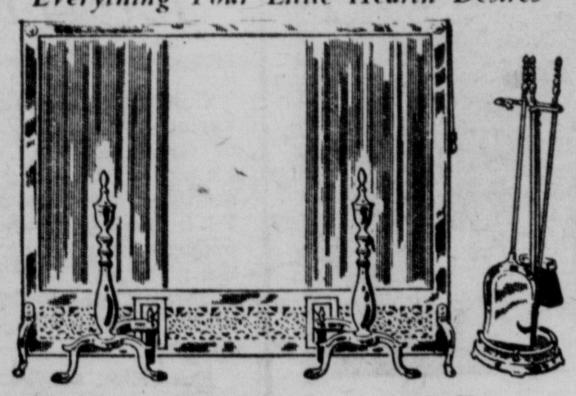

WELCOME WAGON CLUB of Kingston has a unique membership. All are newcomers to the Ulster County area. The women interest themselves in the civic and social welfare of the community and give of their time and talents. Some of the areas in which the member works include the Cerebral Palsy Clinic, Health Clinic, Welfare, Amblyopia screenings, TB Center, Kingston Library, Day Care Center, Gateway, Hadlers Nursing Home, Teen Challenge. Several members of the local executive committee include (l-r) Helene Schildhon, publicity; Elizabeth Grimaldi, president; and Dorothy Kurzawa, membership. (Freeman photo by Kruh)

Columbiettes Serve Area

In addition to fulfilling its prime objective of assisting the Knights of Columbus in all its civic, spiritual, fraternal and social endeavors, Columbiettes of Kingston and Columbiettes throughout the country accomplish a great deal.

In speaking with Mrs. Joseph Bruno, president of the Kingston group, we learn that Columbiettes has a very active program here in cooperation with the New York State Transcription Program for the Blind and Partial Blind Children. They are serviced from kindergarden to and through college. Columbiettes has a three - dimensional book program for the pre-school blind children and they type large size textbooks for the partial sighted child. They also type Brail textbooks.

Social functions include a penny social for November 21 in the K of C Hall in Kingston an a Christmas party set for December 14.

When it comes to charity, Columbiettes give. They donate baskets to the needy during Christmas, Thanksgiving and Easter. Clothing is distributed where needed and birthday cakes are made for the infirm. Monthly, the membership donates bed pads, Johnny Coats, comfort pillows, lap robes, magazines and gifts for patients to the Ulster County Infirmary and its Annex.

Columbiettes also contribute eyeglasses to the needy, make monthly donations to Missions, visit its own sick and infirm members.

Columbiettes also take an active part in all civic affairs, try to keep abreast of all matters brought before the Legislature and keep better informed.

In addition to the Kingston Columbiettes, the Hudson Valley can boast of chapters in Saugerties, Middletown, Monroe, to list a few.

How Does Your Garden Grow?

Club objectives seem to be all the same these days. Time was when garden clubs were composed of women who were truly involved for social activities only. They enjoyed the tea-drinking and small talk.

Today, things are taking a different slant. Times have changed and so have women. When it comes to garden clubs the objective in this generation is to promote interest in the creation of beauty in the home and environment. This is accomplished through the study of plants and flowers, arrangements, landscaping and development.

The big word is — CONSERVATION. In Ulster County area alone there are five garden clubs affiliated with the Federated Garden Clubs of New York State, Inc. There are 76 garden clubs in the Third District which is governed by Mrs. David Rosenbaum of Pine Bush, N.Y. as director.

Today, these clubs are involved in such projects as beautifying New Paltz by planting and caring for plant tubs and window boxes on Main Street; planting and caring for the herb garden on Historic Huguenot Street; planting and caring for plant material in the Triangles on Huguenot Street and S. Chestnut Street.

Other garden club projects include the following: planting and caring for the grounds of the Hurley Town Hall and Library on Main Street, Hurley; arranging floral displays for "Old Stone House Day" in Hurley; making corsages for the residents of the Home for the Aged.

Also dedication and planting of trees on Arbor Day: horticulture and artistic workshops for Junior Gardeners, 4-H groups and Girl Scouts; a floral booth is maintained at the Woodstock Library Fair each year; unsolicited awards given to Woodstock; Conservation homes and businesses in communities for beautification of property, money donated to World Gardening Project, Tree Trusts such as the one conducted in Kingston and Award given yearly to children writing the best composition on Conservation.

Blends of Wool

Sweaters made from blends of wool and the man-made fibers are becoming more common, says Jane Speece, University of Nebraska Extension clothing and design specialist. Wool's luxurious look, she said, combines with the strength, resiliency and shape retention of the synthetics to give beautiful and long lasting sweaters.

Layered Look

Sweater, sportshirt and slacks are standard school uniforms, says the Men's Fashion Association. They suggest a skinny ribbed pullover worn over a sweather skirt for the layered look. Pants are button-front and flared.
